Eight-Hour Day for Heroes Nation's Greatest Need

NEW YORK, June 16—What this country needs just now is an eight-hour day for heroes.

Take that from a tired veteran of Lindbergh receptions. With vivid memories of revolvers drawn by the marines in the Washington Navy Yard, human barricades erected by New York policemen, and anticipation of even more dire defensives by fanatical St. Louis and other shrines of hero worship, chevrons of honor may be in order for the hero followers, too.

And as for the hero, he can but smile wanly. "Lindy," "Slim," or what pet name you have for him, is so tired of public ceremony his smile has become set, his salute has become a tired gesture, and his face is beginning to be drawn.

BUT his composure, second only to his daring, has not yet been seriously ruffled. When reporters, awed by the overwhelming importance of the story, stutter foolish questions, this ace of the air and of all the world, swings the show into line by a snappy retort—with a tone that demands deletion from the records. When the populace grows crazy in its exaltation, he alone remains sane.

Perhaps this boy of Little Falls, Minnesota, close to the original Main Street town, in Sinclair Lewis' book of that title, is giving the big cities the laugh. More probably he would give them the air.

For receptions such as have been visited upon him the past few weeks are enervating. They take the starch out of the strongest, no matter how flowing the tribute or how well engraved the scroll of greeting.

Lindy is only himself when he talks of airplanes. When greeted down the bay on his return to the city, where he took off on his big hop to fame, he appeared blase, even bored. He would say little and smile even less. But once turned on the subject of his Spirit of St. Louis, his old sparkle of enthusiasm burned anew. Sea spray on the return trip, when the plane was encased, had jammed a valve stop. This, he explained, entailed some minor repairing—and then followed a semi-technical explanation.

THE simplicity has not gone from the boy, despite the honors heaped upon him. His head has not been turned yet. But the strain of the high-tensioned and flowery speeched programs is showing its mark.

Of course he stands in a class of his own, even among the world headliners. For most of them—be they home run hitters, champion prize fighters, scientists or explorers—are, in the parlance of newspaperdom, just "nine-day wonders." Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh may last nine weeks before the public, ever thirsting for new news, finds another headline favorite.

The reflection will not be on "Lindy," but upon the effervescent populace. For hero though he be, "Lindy" is human, and the continuous repetition of the same greetings, the same cheers, the same questions, the same laudatory speeches, the same bestowals of cities' freedom, the same bromidic reflections by the same type of after-dinner speakers, wear away the nerves.

If any enterprising town wants to break into the news and crowd out Washington, New York and St. Louis from the date lines, let it greet Lindbergh without any reception. It undoubtedly would win his sincerest appreciation.

JONES TOTTERS ON THRONE IN NATIONAL OPEN

Los Angeles Player Runs First with 224 at End of Third Round

GEORGIAN FAR BEHIND

Champ Has Small Chance of Retaining Crown on Oakmont Course

Oakmont Country Club, Pittsburgh, June 16 — Bobby Jones, champion of champions, tottered on his throne today.

With a round to play for the open golf championship, Harry Cooper of Los Angeles had the lead with 224, Tommy Armour of Washington was second with 225 and Walter Hagen was next with 230.

Jones, with two sixes on his inbound nine, had slipped too far behind the leaders to have other than a nominal hope of catching the trail blazers and the championship appeared to have developed into a three-man race between Cooper, Armour and Hagen.

Jones, followed by a tremendous gallery, reached the turn in 39 and he started back well enough with three fours. The first real disaster and the hole that practically made it impossible for him to regain his title was the short thirteenth.

He drove over into a grass swale, was weak with his next, the ball dropping into a trap. He failed to get his next clear and finally got on the green in four. He then missed a 10-foot putt for a five and then took six to the hole.

Cooper No Dark Horse

Light horse Harry Cooper ceased to be the dark horse of the National Open when he shot a 38-36—74 in the third round for a total of 224 and a two-stroke lead over Walter Hagen, the nominal leader at the moment. Cooper has been threatening to walk back to Los Angeles if he doesn't finish in the first five but at the end of the third round today it seemed that he might have an excellent chance of finishing in the first one.

Cooper's card follows:

Out — 5-5-4—5-4-3—4-4-4—38.

In — 4-4-5—3-4-5—4-3-4—36—74—224.

The garrulous gent from the coast would have given par an awful licking if he hadn't been seized with a bit of putt-paralysis. It is considered very hard to miss a two-foot putt but he did it at the second to take a bogeyed five. After that he paved the situation all the way to the short eighth where he pitched off the tee into a trap and took a four. However, he got the strokes back at the ninth by getting home with a long, beautiful second and taking the regulation two putts.

Crowd Follows Jones

While Harry was chasing his putts to the first nine with a 38 and the big-ground the holes, Bobby Jones was off past gallery of the tournament in his wake. He was a stroke worse than par, having birdies at the fourth and seventh and bunnards at the third, sixth and eighth.

His card for nine holes:

Out 5-4-5—4-4-4—3-4-5—38.

Jones failed to make the green with his second shot to the first hole and took a five. Then he had a good par at the second but another five showed against him at the third where again his second failed to hit the green. He had a birdie four at the long fourth, getting home in two.

Ninth Costs Stroke

The fifth proved an easy four but the sixth, the first short hole, cost him a stroke. He failed to make the green with his iron and the ball found a trap. His recovered well, to within four feet but missed the putt.

One of his best shots was scored by the seventh, a [illegible] which [illegible] five feet, and he sank the putt for a four. He got another four at the eighth and then came the ninth, where he had to get a four to tie Cooper. He got a five.

ST. LOUIS READY TO TURN CITY OVER TO LINDY

Greatest Reception Ever Given St. Louisan Will Be Accorded "Slim" Friday

BULLETIN

New York, June 16—The possibility that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh might hop off for St. Louis tonight instead of tomorrow, as planned, was seen in the action of the reception committee in changing the time of the Raymond Orteig breakfast at which Lindy will receive the $25,000 Orteig prize for the New York-to-Paris hop. The function, originally scheduled for tomorrow morning, has been changed to a 6 o'clock tea tonight. The only official responsibility Lindbergh has left after that is a dinner to be given him at 7 p. m. by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce.

* * *

St. Louis, June 16—Back to the city which gave him his plane and bade him "Godspeed," "Slim" Lindbergh will come tomorrow.

No St. Louisan ever received a welcome home such as that which awaits "slim." No youth who had left the home town ambitions for fame and glory ever returned to find himself so idolized.

He was just "Lucky" Lindbergh, a likeable but obscure air mail pilot, not so long ago. Tomorrow, when he comes home, this city will use every factory whistle, siren and bell at its command in one great tumultuous effort to tell him he is the greatest man on earth.

The arrangements for the occasion, as they stand today, are the most elaborate the city has ever made for a celebration of any sort. They were started the day he landed at Le Bourget and have been the most important business of the day ever since.

To Arrive at 4 p. m.

Six public functions will constitute the city of St. Louis' welcome to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. The ceremony of greeting him on his arrival at Lambert Field here at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon will be short. Mayor Victor

BALLOONIST KILLED

Patch Bag Rips and Pilot Unable To Open His Parachute

Delphos, June 16—The body of Delfa Silver, 36, was sent to Lima for burial today, following his fatal crash from a balloon, here late Wednesday afternoon during the Northwestern Ohio Volunteer Firemen's convention. Silver's wife was a witness to the tragedy.

According to an eye witness, Silver had allowed his balloon to soar to a height of approximately 60 feet, when a patched upper portion of the bag began to rip. Sensing his danger, the eye-witness declared, Silver cut loose from the torn bag in an effort to escape, but the crumpling canvas covered his parachute before it could open.

Silver's body with the unopened parachute and torn balloon dropped into a front yard here near the point where he ascended. Silver was a veteran aeronaut.

Besides his widow, Silver is survived by two children.

TO MEET IN MIAMI

$200,000 Guaranteed for Entertainment of Shriners

Atlantic City, N. J., June 16—Miami, Fla., won the next annual session of the Imperial Shrine Council today after all the shriners' temples in Florida had offered to put up $200,000 for the entertainment of the shriners there next year.

Minneapolis, an outstanding contender, withdrew from the contest when the $200,000 offer was made. Cleveland, the only other strong contender, was outvoted.

SEARCH PARTIES CONTINUE HUNT FOR FRENCHMEN

Canadian Government Finds Some Reports Unfounded and Others Reliable

Quebec, June 16—Government and private search parties today are still scouring the woods of Northern Quebec in search of the French fliers, Nungesser and Coli, although up to the present time some of the reports indicating that the two fliers might be alive have been shown to be baseless.

Edward Blais of River Bend, who sent out messages yesterday afternoon reporting the finding of Nungesser and Coli, now reports that he learns this a worker and was found to be unreliable report was baseless. He states that the report was brought to River Bend by able.

Nevertheless there are reports of flares being seen which are sufficiently reliable to encourage the government in proceeding with its search.

Heard Motor, Claim

George Brousseau, who has been found to be reliable, has reported that on May 9 near the Marguerite River he heard the sound of a motor in the air and believed it was an airplane but was unable to see it on account of the fog.

He states that the motor appeared to be giving trouble. The Forestry department is convinced that Brousseau's report is accurate and believes that possibly the motor may have been that of Nungesser and Coli's plane, as it has been learned that no Canadian planes were in this vicinity at that time.

May Have Lost Way

It is believed possible that the two French fliers lost their way over Newfoundland and followed the shores of the St. Lawrence to the St. Marguerite River, then proceeding inland hoping to find a populated spot for landing.

A forest ranger employed by Price Brothers, Ltd., has reported that he saw flares in the uplands of St. Regis Township, east of the St. Marguerite River, on Tuesday night. It was from this same vicinity that flares were reported on Sunday night.

Another Epochal Aerial Trip Ends With Landing of De Pinedo at Ostia, Italy

Celebrated Commander Who Twice During Tour Met with Seemingly Insurmountable Obstacles Is Welcomed Home from Four-Continent Trip by Premier Mussolini

Ostia, Italy, June 16—Another epochal aerial journey came to an end today, when Conn. Francesco De Pinedo landed at Ostia at 5 o'clock, thus completing a flight that has carried him over four continents.

Great cheers went up when De Pinedo's plane was sighted off the coast, and then swooped down to the surface of the water and nosed in toward the shore.

Greeted By Mussolini

De Pinedo on setting foot again on Italian soil was greeted by Premier Mussolini and other high dignitaries. A huge crowd that had gathered to welcome the flier home gave voice to prolonged cheers.

De Pinedo ends an eventful aerial tour which is the most extensive ever taken by a single plane and in some instances rivals the round-the-world-flight of the American Army.

The Italian flier hopped off from Barcelona, Spain, at 10:25 this morning and landed at Ostia at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

During the flight, which has been in progress for three months, De Pinedo had one plane burned at Roosevelt dome and had to await the delivery of a new ship from Italy. ### Captain Nungesser Expected To Become American Citizen

Washington, June 16—Capt. Charles Nungesser was on his way to the United States to become an American citizen when he made his ill fated flight across the Atlantic, department of labor officials declared today.

He took out his naturalization papers in 1925 and had intended to become connected with aviation in this country.

Had the Paris-to-New York flight been successful, Nungesser planned to remain here, it was said.

PLANS TO BRING "LINDY" HERE UNSUCCESSFUL

Efforts Made To Get Flier To Place Wreath at Harding Tomb

Efforts to have Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the nation's foremost hero, stop in Marion, enroute from New York to St. Louis Friday and visit the tomb of the late President Warren G. Harding were without success, it was revealed here late today.

It had been hoped by a number of Marion citizens that Colonel Lindbergh might be persuaded to land here in his "Spirit of St. Louis" and place a wreath on the tomb.

Telegrams were sent, yesterday, to Postmaster General Harry S. New, a member of the Harding Memorial Association and on the committee that welcomed Lindbergh to Washington last Saturday, and to Congressman Brooks Fletcher, of Marion, asking them to use their influence in having the youthful daredevil flier top here.

No answer had been received from Postmaster General New this afternoon, but Congressman Fletcher sent the following message to the managing editor of The Star:

"Immediately on receipt of your message, I sent wire to Charles Lindbergh requesting he place wreath on Harding's tomb. Advised by Secretary of War Davis and Associated Press here that Lindbergh is deluged with requests to visit other cities enroute west, but present itinerary calls for non-stop flight to St. Louis Friday. Afraid your request comes too late. Understand Lindbergh contemplates visiting many communities after St. Louis trip. Perhaps he can be persuaded to come to Marion."

Efforts probably will be made now to have Colonel Lindbergh come here during his recently-announced tour of the nation in the interests of aviation.

GASOLINE NOW 11c

A welcome announcement is the fact that gasoline may now cost only 11c. It is estimated that this reduction would effect a saving of millions of dollars for the American Motorists. This amazing reduction is brought about by a mysterious little device that is easily installed on any car in a few minutes time. E. Oliver, 1041-2241 W. Winnebago St., Milwaukee, Wisc., is so proud of this invention that for a limited time he is offering the device free to auto owners who will help introduce it. He also needs men everywhere and offers profits of $75 to $150 a week to men who will handle local business. Write him at once for his free sample offer and money making proposition.—Adv.

White House Jester Hands Many Laughs to President

WASHINGTON, — Introducing America's court jester——.

Ballads and fables of old tell us of the funny men who entertained the kings and emperors of days gone by, and the court of Calvin, the First, is no exception to the rule in the presence of such.

The White House "jester," if he may be so designated, is George O'Connor, staid Washington business man by day and silver-voiced comedian by night. Certain it is that George, to lapse into the vernacular, has handed President Coolidge more laughs than any dozen other entertainers he has viewed since taking over control of the Nation's affairs. And the reason for this is that George and the President have a "appeared on the same program" about ten times to every once that Mr. Coolidge has attended a theater.

George O'Connor is known by name to at least virtually every resident of the national capital. He and his partner, Mutt Horn—who beats a mean piano—may be found among those present at about half the banquets given in Washington during the course of a year. They are not paid entertainers—both receive ample incomes from the business world—but their presence is always in demand and the committee on arrangements is always hopeful that a few songs and a few tunes will ensue.

Presidents also enhance any banquet and thus the pair have been thrown together socially many evenings since 1923. And when George sings the Coolidge palms always lead the applause.

A short, stocy man with a typical, twinkley-eyed Irish face, O'Connor goes in for character songs.

Quite as many interesting incidents occur when a population of a million is spread over a whole state, but when it is bunched together in a city, the incidents are better reported.

If you talked with Donald Brian about throat protection, he'd say to you:

Donald Brian, the ever-popular actor.

"There's a big difference in cigarettes, I find. I am especially critical because my voice is such an important factor in my profession. I find Lucky Strikes protect it, keeping it ever clear and never harsh."

Donald Brian

When in New York you are cordially invited to see how Lucky Strikes are made at our exhibit, corner Broadway and 49th Street.

You, too, will find that Lucky Strikes are mild and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked, made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"It's toasted"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

Education First!

How Little Ohio Town, Leading in Percentage of High School Graduations, Has Achieved Noteworthy Record in School Work

Hilda Ivary, above and Ina Kasarie, inset

(The educational progress made in the town of Fairport, O., has been so outstanding that Central Press sent one of its star writers, Miss Bonita Witt, to get the story.)

BY BONITA WITT
Central Press Dispatch to The Star

FAIRPORT, O., June 16 — A high school commencement is just one more graduation to a good many folk, but to the citizens of this small community, a lake port on the southern shores of Lake Erie, it means the fulfillment of the hope and promise with which America beckons to its neighbors across the sea.

Although 84.4 per cent of the children of school age are of foreign born parentage, one per cent of the total population was graduated from the high school this June. In this town of not quite 5,000, there were 47 graduates.

Finland is the homeland of the majority of the Fairport residents. Hungarians form the next largest group of foreign born, followed by a sprinkling of southern Europeans.

Settled There 40 Years Ago

It was about 35 or 40 years ago that the first Finns came to Fairport, attracted by the high wages being paid to workers on a dock then being constructed. A hardy race, used to hard work, they found found the lake port to their liking and began writing to friends in their native Finland, telling them of the opportunities in America. Today, Fairport, with a population almost entirely Finnish, is fast becoming a model city.

Seven years ago the town had only one or two paved streets, no up-to-date fire fighting apparatus. The town hall was a tiny shack.

School facilities were inadequate and classes were held in 10 different buildings including stores and churches.

Teachers had as many as 100 students in their classes.

Birth of a New Spirit

Foreign residents felt they were strangers in a country eager to exploit them but slow to extend them the advantages of the new land, to which they had come with hope in their hearts. Cruelly taken advantage of by those they trusted, they came to lose confidence in everyone.

Then a few citizens started an agitation for a modern school building. Today, seven years later, Fairport has two up-to-date grade school buildings and a first class high school.

Its streets are among the best paved in Ohio.

It owns a modern fire fighting apparatus.

The teaching staff of 17 has been enlarged to 52.

Largely through the efforts of Morton Helm, school superintendent, the foreign residents of the town have been made to feel the school belongs to them. They are proud of the fine building. They have voted bonds to the limit permitted by the state law and they would be willing to vote more if they could.

Unusually Large Enrollment

Fairport believes it has a greater number of children of school age in proportion to its population than any other incorporated city in the United States. Fourteen hundred youngsters are enrolled in its schools.

These immigrants from Finland, oppressed by the yoke of Russia for more than a hundred years, unable to obtain an education themselves, want their children to go to school and train for office positions. Finnish youngsters aren't withdrawn from school as soon as they are able to get a working permit. They go to high school if it is at all possible and a great many from each graduating class attend institutions of higher learning.

"Through the education of the children America is helping to allay the suspicion and the fear which has gripped the oppressed peoples of Europe for centuries," says Superintendent Helm. "Once Fairport succeeded in gaining the confidence of its foreign born and creating a feeling of civic pride it pulled itself out of a bad rut and today it is a thriving town."

Officers of Finnish Parentage

Miss Hilda Ivary, president of the graduating class and Miss Ina Kasarie, secretary, are of Finnish parentage as were the majority of the graduating class. Miss Kasarie was salutatorian of her class.

Athletics form an important part of the extra-curricular. for Finns are natural born athletes. Every girl in the school at some time in her course takes domestic science. As part of their training the girls keep house in a model cottage where they are taught scientific American methods.

"The world does not owe you a living—you must give more than you receive," is the advice which Superintendent Helm gives to his pupils.

"We believe the aim of the public school should be to turn its pupils into useful citizens," he says.

Words you can't spell remain unregenerate black sheep in your vocabulary to the end. You never can spell them.

Kills Pesky Bed-Bugs Roaches and Ants

Doctors declare that bed-bugs, roaches and other vermin are the most to be feared means of spreading such diseases as consumption, spinal meningitis and other infectious troubles. There is no disgrace in getting bed-bugs in your home, because that can't be avoided. But it is a disgrace to permit them to propagate and thrive when it is so easy to get rid of them with the new chemical compound, P.D.Q., which quickly puts an end to these pesky devils.

A Million Bed-Bugs

A 35-cent package of this golden chemical will make a quart of a mixture that is so deadly to bed-bugs that it would kill a million of them if you could get that many together. Instantly it smothers and annihilates the living creatures; seals their eggs and stops them from hatching and multiplying.

Will Not Damage Goods

P.D.Q. will not injure delicate fabrics, clothing, carpets, furniture, bedding, wall paper or woodwork. In fact, it is often used as a deodorizer and disinfectant.

Moths

Impossible for moths to exist after using P.D.Q. Easy to use. A treatment on garments will prevent moths for two years.

For Ants and Cockroaches

Ants and cockroaches stand no chance of surviving a treatment of P.D.Q. It attacks them and their eggs with such force that it kills their whole generation.

P. D. Q. In Liquid Form

P.D.Q. can be purchased in sealed bottles double strength liquid form, with patent spout free. P.D.Q. Liquid can be diluted to make a quart or it can be used pure.

P.D.Q. is marketed in two style packages, Liquid form 50c, ready for use and P.D.Q. Dry form, 35c. Each package makes one quart.

Get P.D.Q. from your druggist today. Your money back if the bugs are not gone tomorrow.

FLIERS LEAVE SOUTH GERMANY TO MEET WIVES

Chamberlin and Levine Will Greet Mates at Bremen Friday Morning

Frankfort-on-Main, June 16—After a series of record-breaking demonstrations and ovations in south Germany, Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, the two American transatlantic fliers, depart for the north today. They planned to fly to Bremen with a brief stop-over at Hanover. At Bremen they will meet their wives, who are due to land from the German liner Berlin on Friday morning. It will be the first greetings between the airmen and their wives since the transoceanic flight began at Roosevelt Flying Field, just outside of New York City nearly two weeks ago.

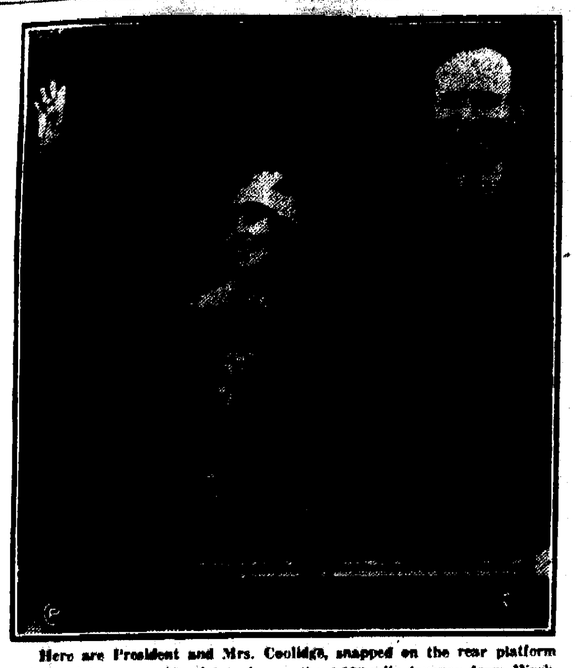
Chamberlin and Levine with Mrs. Chamberlin and Mrs. Levine will fly to Berlin by way of Magdeburg. According to present plans the fliers will hop off from Berlin in the Columbia on Saturday for Munich, arriving in Vienna on Sunday.

Wednesday was a busy day for the Americans. They motored to Karlsruhe, flying thence to Friedrichshafen where they conferred with Dr. Hugo Eckener, director of the great Zeppelin plant. After an inspection of the plant they came to Frankfort where they were guests of honor at a banquet last night. They made two stops enroute to this city, one at Stuttgart where 130,000 persons turned out to give them an ovation, and another at Wuerttemberg where they were officially honored by the city.

Here's a new trick: Never look at the thermometer in hot weather.

Coolidges on Their Way to Summer White House

Scene as President and Mrs. Coolidge, en route from Washington to the new "summer White House" in the Black Hills of South Dakota, stopped off at Hammond, Indiana, to dedicate Wicker Memorial Park in honor of World War veterans. Speaking to an immediate audience of 50,000, after having motored with Mrs. Coolidge through a lane of folk, estimated in excess of 400,000, the President urged higher wages for unskilled workers and extension of education. Mrs. Coolidge may be seen on the field alongside the president.



Here are President and Mrs. Coolidge, snapped on the rear platform of the eight-car presidential train, on the 1,800-mile journey from Washington to the "summer White House" in the Black Hills of South Dakota. Cutting across Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and South Dakota, the Coolidges seemed to enjoy immensely the changing scenery and surging crowds.

MILLS PLANS TO CONTINUE HIS FIGHT FOR PAT

Canton Attorney Holds Interview with McDermott in Ohio Prison

Columbus, June 16—E. L. Mills, Canton attorney, today was planning to continue his legal battle to free Patrick Eugene McDermott from the Ohio Penitentiary, after holding his long delayed private interview with the alleged slayer of Don. R. Mellett, Canton publisher.

The private interview culminated a legal battle which had been waged between Mills and Warden P. E. Thomas of the penitentiary since the red headed trigger man was sentenced to life imprisonment on Chrstmas Eve.

Thomas had refused to allow Mills to interview his client privately, when the attorney asked for the privlege while defending Ben Rudner, another alleged conspirator also serving a life term for the Mellett murder.

Declares Innocence

Arrived at the penitentiary late Wednesday, Mills refused to talk to McDermott through a small window, when pententiary officials then allowed the prisoner and his attorney to meet on a bench in the courtyard. Mills and his client talked for more than an hour, after which Mills again declared the innocence of McDermott.

Mill's wife, he reported, was refused permission to see David Atkins, negro, convicted in Stark County for the murder of a railroad detective, he reported after the McDermott interview. Mrs. Mills, it was said, wished to see Atkins to tell him of his mother's funeral. Penitentiary guards, Mills said, told her she would "have to write the message."

While Mills spoke with McDermott, Rudner passed at the other side of the yard, and the two waved at each other. Streitenberger also passed but the former detective did not look toward the couple. He has had nothing to do since being sentenced for his part in the Mellett murder conspiracy, McDermott told Mills.

Testing Woolens

Richman woolen buyers, nationally known as experts, carefully select only virgin wool fabrics. Upon delivery, every piece goes to our laboratory where tests more severe than may seem necessary are made to determine the tailoring and wearing qualities.

The stretching test, pictured here, tells us by means of a mechanical pull, registered in pounds, just what a fabric will stand in hard wear, before we shrink and cut it.

Summer weight woolens must stand over 30 pounds pull to the square inch on the filler, and 45 pounds on the warp. One out of every fifteen pieces delivered is rejected for some minor fault most manufacturers do not consider vital.

Woolens good enough to pass our tests are worthy of your complete confidence.

Your Investment in Richman's Clothes is Safeguarded

There is always a best way to do or make a thing—in making Richman's Clothes, the best process known is employed in each operation, from the selection of woolens to inspection of the finished garments.

You'll see evidence of unusual tailoring skill and care in the fine clothes we are now showing—You will admire the recently developed styles and the splendid woolens, freshly received from mills noted for high quality.

Styles for every figure—two and three-button sacks for men and young men, the favored three-button collegiate model, smart double-breasted suits in all the new weaves, patterns and colorings. If a man can find what he likes anywhere in this wide world, he can find it here. We don't believe there is a more comprehensive showing elsewhere.

And we know the values are incomparable.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT LINDY'S TRIP

...get the other half of "We"

On the spectacular flight to Washington, Lindbergh had with him as escort Capt. Sinclair Street. "Lindy" was flying a Curtiss army pursuit ship, the one he used Monday to fly from Bolling Field, Washington.

There were no lights on Lindbergh's plane as it soared into the night but Captain Street's airship carried navigation lights so he led the way. Lindbergh was guided by the lights.

"Lindy" took his time coming back. It had been believed at Mitchell Field he might land around 7:30 o'clock or before and when he did not arrive at that time army officials began to think he had changed his plans and landed elsewhere.

But at 7:45 o'clock the famous "Spirit of St. Louis" was sighted swooping gracefully toward the field, with Lindbergh at the controls and followed by three other airships. "Lindy" was in the lead of the formation, followed by Captain Street in his plane and two navy pursuit planes bringing up the rear.

Gives Watchers Thrill

Before he came down, "Lindy", as if jubilant over his stunt, broke out of formation and went into a series of fancy formations. "The Spirit of St. Louis made a pretty picture as its silver sides glinted in the bright morning sunlight. It looped and dived, sidebanked and turned over on its back with the expert fingers controlling its movements.

Aviators and mechanics on the ground applauded the buoyant spirit reflected in "Lindy's" dizzy gyrations of the ship.

And then suddenly, the famous ship dived for the landing field. Some of the observers started to run toward the plane but it suddenly loomed up with an increased roar and sailed straight up into the sky.

"Lindy" was having a grand time. Away from the roar of the crowds he was enjoying himself.

A few minutes later he came down gracefully to a perfect landing.

Goes Up Again

But "Lindy" didn't stay down. As his plane came down lightly on its landing wheels, the motors began to roar again and up he rose, and soon he was in high altitude and into another series of ecstatic stunts. He turned over lazily as if he was enjoying the sheer luxury of the reunion with "me."

"I sure had a grand time," he exclaimed when he finally came to earth.

Lindbergh was enthusiastically greeted by a number of West Point cadets, several aviators, some army officers and a few civilians who had been "in on" his secret flight.

The plane was taken to a hangar at the west end of Roosevelt Field, and Lindbergh watched and supervised as it was put away. The hangar doors were locked and a heavy guard placed outside.

Lindbergh said "the Spirit of St. Louis" had functioned perfectly en route from Washington and does not require overhauling or attention of any kind. It is ready for Lindbergh's take-off tomorrow morning for St. Louis.

Takes Short Rest

The exurberant young flier was escorted to the quarters of Col. Benjamin D. Foulois, commanding officer of Mitchel Field for breakfast.

Lindbergh said he would take a short rest after breakfast before leaving for New York by automobile. He hadn't had any sleep. His friend, Blythe, sought to dissuade him from this and have him go to New York at once as Lindbergh is to be the guest of Brooklyn this morning but the flier won his point.

A double guard was placed outside the quarters of Colonel Foulois as Lindbergh ate breakfast. Meanwhile a battery of cameramen assembled and waited for Lindbergh to reappear.

Blythe said "Lindy" made up his mind suddenly to make the trip as they sat in Roxy's Theater. He had been longing for his plane.

"Say, there's a grand moon up tonight," Lindy remarked. "Let's get out of here and go the field."

Audience Unaware

None of the audience knew Lindbergh had slipped away until 3 o'clock when an explanation was made from announcement, and a round of cheer the stage. A few hisses greeted the announcement and a round of cheering, too, from those who understood how the boy felt after having been feted to within an inch of his life.

Earlier in the night he had attended a Ziegfeld performance and also went with Mayor James J. Walker to the Polo Grounds to see his friend, Ace Hudkins, of Lincoln, Neb., lose a hard-fought battle to Sergt. Sammy Baker of Mitchel Field.

The flier's mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, is enroute to St. Louis by train in a private car attached to the Pennsylvania Railroad's "Spirit of St. Louis". "Lindy" will meet her in St. Louis following the only mode of travel which seems to satisfy him.

After breakfast Lindbergh, still wearing his evening clothes, left the flying filed for his Park-av apartment in New York City in an automobile which was escorted by motorcycle policemen.

Without even a "cat nap," Lindbergh left his apartment in New York at 10:15 o'clock to take part in "Brooklyn Day" ceremonies in his honor. He entered an automobile to be taken on a 20-mile tour of Brooklyn's main thoroughfares. Thousands of peoples lined the streets all along the route of the parade

In Gala Attire

Brooklyn was in gala garb for the occasion. Bunting, flags and pictures of Lindbergh were on almost every home and building. Huge throngs came from miles around by subway elevated lines and motor cars to view the procession.

"Lindy" was due at the parade ground adjoining Prospect Park, Brooklyn, at 11:30 o'clock and long before that hour more than 25,000 persons had assembled. Bands played patriotic airs for the restless crowd awaiting the flier's arrival at the park.

All along King's highway, one of Brooklyn's main thoroughfares, troops of boy scouts and girl scouts were stationed to maintain order among the thousands of school children who were given a holiday so they could see the flier.

Elaborate police arrangements had been made, and practically every policeman in Brooklyn was on parade duty. Two thousand policemen were assigned to handle the crowd at Prospect Park

Escorted by motorcycle policemen, Lindbergh with his automobile cavalcade passed over the Manhattan bridge and into Brooklyn at 11 o'clock

DROPS INTO CAPITAL TO GET HIS "WE"

Washington, June 16—Racing over the eastern seaboard in a dramatic flight joining the night and the dawn, Col. Charles Lindbergh dropped into the blinding floodlights of the naval air station at Anacostia at 3:43 o'clock this morning to re-establish the celebrated "we" partnership for the first time on American shores.

Alone in a swift army pursuit plane, and still wearing the formal evening clothes of his last New York event, the sleepless eagle swooped down out of the red-tinted eastern skies one hour and 50 minutes after his take-off from Mitchel Field.

Smiling and aglow with the spirit of his spectacular coup he leaped from his plane, greeted officers of the naval flying field, quickly tuned up "The Spirit of St. Louis," and was off again for New York at 4:10 a. m.—27 minutes after his arrival. The sleeping capital knew nothing of his coming or his going. Between his arrival and departure there had been hardly sufficient time to turn over, but in the dramatic interval the blackest night which precedes the dawn had been toned to a dull grey by the rising rim of the red on the eastern horizon.

He arrived in a drab green army craft which was barely visible in the black skies until it swerved within 100 feet of the glaring beacon lights of the landing field; and when he took off, the lights meanwhile having been extinguished, the glistening lines of the silvered St. Louis were as quickly lost in the dull sheen of the morning light.

Less than 50 persons were on the field to witness the reunion of the daring lone eagle and his famous craft.

Advised by telephone of "Lindy's departure from New York, naval officers at Anacostia had barely time to rout snoring sailors from their bunks to provide a ground crew. A dozen taxicabs rushed routed newspapermen and photographers to the scene less than five minutes before the landing.

In Perfect Condition

Lindbergh was accompanied to Washington by Army Lieut. "Billy" Street, who landed at 3:38 a. m., five minutes before the full-dressed pilot wheeled his craft into the field lights. On the return trip, "The Spirit of St. Louis" headed a string of four craft. Commander Homer C. Wick of Anacostia station took off a few seconds after Lindbergh. Lieut. A. C. Miles followed in a second naval plane, and Street brought up the rear with the army pursuit craft he had flown from Mitchel Field.

"The Spirit of St. Louis" apparently was in perfect condition, for her master smiled broadly as he approached her roaring motor from the hangar in which he had conversed with the naval officers. Climbing into the pilot-seat he put both hands to the instrument board, tuned the engine for less than a minute leaped out to get final directions from Commander Wick, posed an instant for a flashlight picture, waved a cheery adieu to the small circle of heavy-eyed field attendants and newspapermen and was away.

Eliminates Stunts

Although he flew from Mitchell Field to Anacostia in almost record time, Lindbergh omitted his wonted stunt flying as he took off in his own plane for the first flight since his triumphal return to America.

Heading into the gentle northwest wind, he taxied the St. Louis less than 150 yards, nosed her upwards at a thrilling angle to an altitude of about 1,200 feet and then away into a northeasterly course for New York. Two minutes later he and his escorts were lost in the shimmering harbingers of day on the eastern horizon and the disturbed field settled into the even tenor of its uneventful ways.

VOTE CONFIDENCE

Paris, June 16—The chamber of deputies today gave the Poincare government another vote of confidence, approving the premier's economy decrees by a vote of 327 to 200.

DELINQUENT TAX SUITS THREATENED BY RANDLE

Collector Claims Answers to Notices Are Coming in Slowly; $30,000 Out

Unless all delinquent tax payers make a move to pay back debts to the county, individual suits will be filed against them in local courts in the near future, C. R. Randle delinquent tax collector of Marion County, stated today.

Although the general tax assessments in Marion County are being settled in good manner, the delinquent taxes, some of which are 20 years old, are being paid very slow despite of the persuasion of the collectors, according to Randle.

Collector Randle, who avers that Marion is the hardest county of Ohio in which he has had charge of tax collections, has been working on a total of 5,151 back tax claims since his arrival here April 21. He now estimates that the live claims of delinquent taxes totals $30,000 in the county.

First Action

The first action in enforcing payment of the old debts through the courts was taken, the latter part of last week by Randle when he filed three suits for claim. Seven other suits were to have been filed late today against delinquent persons.

Two letters of warning and a personal call by C. O. Randle, son of the collector, are made before suits will be filed according to a statement of Randle. The letters are sent out at intervals of 10 days each and 10 days or more after the second letter is sent through the mails, C. R. Randle gives the last warning by a personal call.

MARION MAN ATTENDING CEDAR POINT MEETING

M. C. O'Brien at Annual Convention of Ohio Bankers' Association

M. C. O'Brien, cashier of the Fahey Banking Co., is attending the annual convention of the Ohio Bankers' Association being held at Cedar Point, this week.

More than 1,000 bankers and others interested in finance were in attendance when the convention was opened at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. William A. Ackerman, Mount Vernon president of the Ohio Association was the principal speaker at the opening meeting. Bejamin M. Anderson economist of the Chase National Bank of New York City, spoke on "Banking Control of Business."

President Ackerman declared in his address that the taxation system of Ohio was "antiquated, unfair, partial, and detrimental to industrial development." He said however, that the laws regulating banks and the banking business were the best in the world

The convention banquet was held last night with Dr Charles Wishart, president of Wooster College as the speaker.

MARION GIRL AWARDED COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIP

Miss Margaret J. Cowan Is Honored by Alma Mater

As an award for work done while a student at the college, Miss Margaret J. Cowan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cowan, 605 Girard-av has been given a scholarship by Lake Erie College at Painesville. Miss Cowan who graduated from the college two years ago, has been teaching in a private school near Ashtabula since her graduation.

The award which is in the form of money is given each year to one graduate from the classes for the past five years, and to one who contemplates taking post graduate work. Miss Cowan expects to leave in September for London, England, where she will take a year post graduate course in the University of London.

Miss Cowan, who also received a scholarship for the best essay, while a student at Lake Erie College, arrived here yesterday to spend the summer with her parents.

GOVERNOR DONAHEY NOT TO INTERFERE AT ADENA

Sheriff Gives Assurance That He Is Able To Handle Situation

Columbus, June 16—There will be no state interference at Adena, Ohio, it was announced here today at the governor's office, after Sheriff Allison of Jefferson County wired the governor that he was able to cope with the situation in the little mining town.

The Governor's office last night communicated with Sheriff Allison upon receipt of a telegram from Mayor F. H. Gibson. It read:

"Maintenance of order now [illegible] impossible. The village council [illegible] in requesting your help. The village council has passed resolution, calling your help."

Chicago Man Heads Industrial Advertisers' Association

Cleveland, June 16—With the close of their three-day convention here, the National Industrial Advertisers' Association today had elected the following officers:

J. R. Hopkins, Chicago, president; N. R. Greenfelder, Wilmington, Del., first vice president; George H. Corey, Cleveland, second vice president; H. P. Sigwalt, Milwaukee, third vice president; H. Von P. Thomas, St. Louis, secretary-treasurer.

The convention next year will probably be held in St. Louis, it was announced.

At the closing session, the delegates went on record as favoring newspapers as the best of all advertising mediums.

WESTERN POWERS OPPOSE BOLSHEVIST PROPAGANDA

Official Information Given Russian Foreign Minister by German Government

Berlin, June 16—The German government today officially informed M. Tchitcherin, Russian foreign minister, that the western powers assembled at Geneva have taken a decided stand against bolshevist propaganda and entertain "grave misgivings" over the execution of political prisoners in Russia.

The German officials also transmitted a delicate warning to Russia against issuing any ultimatum to Poland, as Russia is reported to be preparing to do, stating that this would complicate European affairs.

German officialdom denies that it is acting as a mediator between Russia and Great Britain, but it is stated that Germany has merely been chosen as a clearing house for messages for Russia.

Germany, being disarmed, is unable to take a stand either for or against any nation, officials said.

NO CONCERTED ACTION BEIN PLANNED

Geneva, June 16—No concerted action against Russian propaganda will be taken by the "big six" of the League of Nations, it was learned today.

The secret conferences between Great Britain, Germany, France, Italy, Belgium and Japan are understood to have resulted only in a suggestion that Herr Stresemann, German foreign minister, inform M. Tchitcherin, Russian foreign minister, that it is the unanimous view of the foreign governments that the Third International propaganda, which is being disseminated, is harming Russia and that individual governments will be forced to combat this propaganda.

D'AUTREMONTS' JOURNEY TO OREGON IS DELAYED

Requisition Papers for Alleged Murderers Signed by Governor Donahey

Columbus, June 16—Requisition papers authorizing transfer of Ray and Roy d' Autremont, brothers under indictment for murder in Jacksonville, Ore., to Oregon officers here for transfer, were signed today, by Gov. Vic Donahey.

The start of the twin brothers on the long journey to face four-year-old indictments growing out of the dynamiting and robbery of a Southern Pacific passenger train, in which four men were killed, will probably be delayed until early tomorrow, while Oregon officers and postoffice inspectors today visited Steubenville, where the two brothers were arrested after a four-year search, and Hanging Rock, O. The latter village is the home of Ray d' Autremont's wife, whom he married in Ohio a year ago, under an assumed name. She returned to her home with her baby son when her husband was arrested and admitted his identity.

CURTIS RELEASED

Former Canton Safety Director Leaves Ohio Pen After Pardon

Columbus, June 16—E. E. Curtis, former safety director of Canton, today was released from Ohio Penitentiary at the expiration of his minimum sentence. He was pardoned recently by Governor Donahey. Curtis was convicted of graft after two underworld characters testified that graft had been collected for the former safety director from gambling houses and other dens of vice.

Harry Boulais and Harry Turner, Canton "jungle" characters, who testified against Curtis, were pardoned from the penitentiary by Governor Donahey, a month ago. They had been convicted of perjury as a result of testimony that they gave during the trial of Curtis.

Dr. Robert Dixon of the United States Public Health Service, who is making a survey of goiter conditions in southern Ohio, will make the principal addresses at the meeting. It is expected that several hundred doctors of the United States will attend.

Other members of the Ohio delegation include: Drs. P. D. Rixel, Pandora; W. F. Lehr, Arlington and E. Florence Stir Smith, Newark.

SWIMMING POOL BEING PREPARED FOR OUTING

Boy Scout Summer Camp Period To Start June 20

The swimming pool at Camp John A. Owens, five miles south of Marion, is being dredged today in preparation for the summer outing of Harding Area Council of Boy Scouts. The pool will be 80 feet long, 15 feet wide, and eight feet deep when the work is completed.

Boy scout camping periods begin Monday, June 20 when Troop 1 and 10 of Marion, Troop 1 of Bucyrus, and Troop 7 of Prospect will begin a two weeks' outing at Camp Owens.

Preparations for the camp have been under way for the last few weeks and members of the camp staff are busy today making final arrangements. Charles Isaly is chairman of the camp committee and Scout Executive W. C. Brown is director of the camp.

NEARLY 1,800 ATTEND MASONIC FIELD MEET

Representatives from Seven Counties Take Part in Outing Here

Masons and families of Marion, Delaware, Richland, Crawford, Hardin, Wyandot and Morrow counties, numbering nearly 1,000, were in attendance at the annual field day and basket picnic of the eleventh district, Grand Commandery of Ohio, Knights Templar, at Garfield Park yesterday.

The affair, starting at noon and lasting until midnight, was opened by a concert by the Kadgar Grotto band. Other events of the afternoon included an exhibition drill by Commanderies of Marion, Clinton, Kenton and Mansfield and baseball games and other recreation amusements. Tickets to the Grand Theatre were given as prizes to the winners of the boys' and girls' races and a tug-of-war.

Following the basket picnic at 8 o'clock, a dance, with the music played by Schuler's orchestra, was held at Rainbow Gardens. Louis "Slim" Slemmer gave several impersonations and a black-faced monologue at the dance.

A large delegation of Masons from the field day celebration attended the funeral of Dr. Louis H. Britton, of Claridon, held yesterday afternoon.

INTERVENTION NOT LIKELY IN LEO HALTERMAN CASE

Fayette County Murderer Is Scheduled for Death Chair Friday Night

Columbus, June 16—Gov. Vic Donahey, it was stated today at the governor's office, is not expected to intervene in the scheduled electrocution of Leo Halterman, Fayette County at Ohio Penitentiary Friday.

Halterman was convicted of murdering his half-brother, Charles Halterman, on the Halterman farm near Washington C. H., last September. Although indicted, also, on the charge of killing Mrs. Charles Halterman, on the same date, Leo was not tried on that charge.

Believing they did not find sufficient reason for recommending that [illegible] Dunlap intervene in the case, Mrs. Whitmire and George A. Bilger, [illegible] of the state board of [illegible] refused a request to [illegible]

HERE'S MORE ABOUT ST. LOUIS PARTY

Miller, Gov. Sam A. Baker and a few members of the reception committee will meet the "Lone Eagle" as he climbs from the cockpit of The Spirit of St. Louis" and take him to the home of Harry H. Knight, one of his principal backers. Before landing, however, Lindbergh will circle the city so that all may see his plane.

Saturday and Sunday are to be the major days of celebration. The parade in his honor Saturday morning will give every enthusiastic St. Louisan an opportunity to see the honored fellow citizen and to shout his praise. That afternoon Lindbergh will attend and participate in the flag-raising ceremonie of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals at Sportsman's Park.

To Receive Scroll

Saturday night there is to be a formal dinner at the Hotel Chase, when the flier will be presented a scool expressing the city's appreciation of his achievement.

Sunday's program will bring what is hoped to be the most impressive ceremony—A great open-air celebration in the huge natural amphitheater at Forest Park. Thousands of out-of-town admirers will swell the ranks of St. Louisans. Addresses will be made by Secretary of War Davis, Mayor Miller, Governor Baker and Sen. Harry B. Hawes.

A visit to the municipal open air opera, which will feature a Lindbergh song number, will conclude the home-coming celebration Sunday night. Thenceforth Lindbergh's time will be his own.

Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, the flier's mother, who will share the celebration with her famous son, was expected to arrive here this afternoon.

RICHWOOD CONTRACTOR AND HORSEMAN DIES

Milton B. Koffroth, 65, Stricken with Apoplexy While Driving Car

Richwood, June 16—Returning from Mansfield late yesterday afternoon where he had attended the Ohio Short Ship Circuit meeting at Mansfield with his wife and a party of friends, Milton B. Koffroth, 65, general contractor and well known horse trainer of this village, was stricken with apoplexy and died while still at the wheel of his car.

Koffroth's condition being unknown to the other occupants, the car was soon beyond control and careened into the ditch at a point five miles west of Mansfield on the Harding Highway. No one was injured and the car slightly damaged.

The body was brought to Marion in a Mansfield ambulance and then brought here where funeral services will be held from the late residence, W. Ottawa at Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Burial will be made in the mausoleum at Chilhowee Cemetery.

Accompanying Mr. Koffroth on his trip to Mansfield besides Mrs. Koffroth were George Howe and T. H. Sprott, both of Richwood. A trotting horse owned by Mr. Koffroth was entered in a race today. Following the owner's death, the horse was withdrawn and brought to the home stables here last night.

Milton B. Koffroth was born in Holmes County Jan. 6, 1862, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Koffroth. He was affiliated with the Knights of Pythias lodge here. Surviving are the widow, Mary A., one brother, Edward, Richwood, and one sister, Mrs. Laurena Bigley, McGriffy, O.

Daily Proverb—"A true friend is known in the day of adversity."

We are told that the new model Ford resembles an automobile. It must be splendidly disguised.

Our memory goes back to a time when June didn't have to be steam-heated to keep her from freezing.

Even though the size of the dollar bill is decreased, it will probably look just as big as ever to a lot of people.

Such is our admiration for Lindbergh that it can not be alienated even by the so-called poetry written about him and his feat.

Bootleggers up in Cleveland have reduced their prices for a first-class murder job to $25, but $12 a quart remains the standard price for the stuff they sell.

There are indications that Russian whiskers are not to remain permanent blotches upon the Chinese landscape.

"I wanted to go somewhere where I could do something and say nothing," Lindbergh said in one of his short talks a few days ago. It's no use! We will never be able to pass that young man off as a typical American!

Just to prove how law-abiding they are, the "personal liberty" crowd express their perfect willingness to conform to all laws and regulations that suit them.

There's another distinction Lindbergh achieved: he actually drove the murders and murderers, the marital misfits, the sensational publicity seekers, the "bathing beauty" contestants and the various girl queens of one thing or another off the first page for days at a time.

A cable told us yesterday that there were 11,000 wounded Chinese soldiers in the hospitals over in China. It must have rained a lot less over there than we imagined.

Anyway, there's one respect in which we true aristocrats of the land have it all over the common herd. We don't have to put in our days of rest driving our families all about the country.

Mr. McAdoo wants it distinctly understood that there will not be the slightest danger of Democracy being linked up in public thought with Demon Rum if it is careful about the selection of a candidate, and he offers to do his utmost to assist the somewhat aged maiden lady in making her selection.

Aha! At last we know the nefarious purpose behind the flights of Lindbergh and Chamberlin! The editor of a Berlin communist paper tells us that "they are trial expeditions undertaken by American capitalistic imperialism in preparation for a wholesale invasion and the bombardment of the working classes of Europe." Whoop 'em up! Now all together! "Liberty and Equality!"

"Disrespect for the Volstead Law."

We can not say that we are wholly surprised that Aviator Chamberlin has been made the subject of criticism by some of the ultra drys over here for having taken a glass of beer soon after landing in Germany. We were more or less prepared for something of the kind, when it was reported that an endeavor had been made to influence the government to the end that it would issue passports to members of the American legion contemplating the trip to Paris for their annual convention next September only upon the condition that the holder of each passport would sign a stipulation, to be imprinted thereon, that he would not partake of intoxicating liquor while on the trip.

The charge that Chamberlin's drinking of a glass of beer was an act of "disrespect to the Volstead lay" is amusing in the extreme. To assume that Chamberlin showed "disrespect for the Volstead law" would be to assume that the Volstead law automatically follows all Americans, no matter to what part of the globe they may go. The Volstead law goes a long way in the matter of restrictions, but hardly that far.

The ultra-dry element should waste no time worrying about disrespect shown to the Volstead law over in Germany. The disrespect shown the Volstead law over here is sufficient to occupy all the time and effort it may have to give to worrying, a disrespect in no small part due to the follies of extreme radicals among the friends of temperance.

We believe in temperance. We believe the Volstead law should be recognized and enforced so long as it is the law. We do not believe that it should have become a part of the constitution in the way it did. We hold that no admendment should be made to the constitution save by popular vote. Amending the constitution by legislative endorsement is too susceptible of jobbery. But so long as the Volstead law is the law, we would like to see it obeyed, not because it is the Volstead law, but because it is the law. But the idea that Chamberlin's course in taking a glass of beer over in Germany showed "disrespect for the Volstead law" strikes us as the acme of silliness.

The French Are the French.

Leon Daudet, editor of Action L'Francaise, author of "Letters from My Mill," which have delighted children the world over, and leader of the French royalists, is in prison to serve a five-month sentence for criminally libeling the chauffeur of a Paris taxicab in which his son, Philippe, was found dead.

Editor Daudet should have surrendered to the prison authorities some days ago. Instead, his course was one of defiance of the decree of the hated republican court before which he was haled. He barricaded his newspaper office, and for three days stood off the Paris police, something like a thousand young royalists having assembled in his plant to resist the minions of the law. For three days there were assaults by the police and counter-assaults by the royalists, and between forty and fifty heads were battered up and possibly as many eyes blackened. The people of Paris began to show interest and take sides.

The situation was becoming serious, so serious that the French government, through its minister of the interior, notified M. Daudet that it intended to take him regardless of consequences. M. Daudet responded that he and his followers would "fight to the death." He may have meant it, too, at the time, for then he did not appreciate the indignity in readiness to be heaped upon him. His office had been surrounded by two companies of horse guards with shining helmets and drawn swords, 500 police officers armed with tear bombs, and four fire brigades, each equipped with a double battery of hose lines. The assault was to be made with the tear bombs, and the loyalists were then to be drowned out by the firemen.

At the psychological moment, M. Chiappe, prefect of the Paris police, having donned his long-tailed coat and striped grey trousers, his high hat, white kid gloves, wearing a monocle and carrying a cane, approached the newspaper plant and demanded that he be permitted to speak to the "commander of the forces within." As the loyalist leader stepped out upon a balcony, Prefect Chiappe said:

"I am alone. I call on you as a Frenchman to surrender without shedding more blood which will not buy back the life of your son."

Daudet took a glance at the four batteries of hose lines and the tear bombs, and replied:

"Though charged with performing an inhuman act, you talk like a human-being. I know the strength of my troops, but I will surrender rather than have the blood of Frenchmen, and even civil war, on my head. Viva la France."

Then, the royalists guards marched away in order, M. Daudet drove off to jail in Prefect Chiappe's car, having arranged with the prefect in advance that they deviate from their course that he might kiss Mme. Daudet goodby. And now he is in jail, happier than most kings. The greatest chefs in Paris are vying with each other in preparing his meals, he is being almost buried under floral offerings, half Paris is paying him honor, and instead of being merely an editor, an author and the champion of a lost cause, he recognizes himself as he is acclaimed—a martyr.

The French are the French. There are no other people like them.

"If France and this country are to negotiate a new peace treaty," the Indianapolis News suggests, "it might be well to send Lindbergh as America's diplomatic representative." We are not so sure about that. The last great treaty entered into wasn't a matter of diplomacy in any sense of the word, but a strictly business proposition throughout."

"Where is the old-fashioned husband," asks an exchange, "who could eat nine biscuits?" It's our guess that he passed to his reward with the advent of the can-opener.

From the Chicago Post we learn that "Mrs. Calvin Coolidge is said to be worth a million dollars to the Republican party." Now had it said a million votes, the thing wouldn't have looked so far out of the way.

Mussolini tells the Italians that they must have enough aeroplanes to obscure the sun, possibly figuring that, in case of emergency, he can supply them with all the light they need.

"Go to the zoo," says St. John Ervine, "and you will see that the male is always the more beautiful animal of the species." We assume it would be expecting too much to have the rule hold good also at the bathing beaches.

Why not call him Lindbergh, and let it go at that? The title, colonel, can add little distinction in a country where you can't throw a brickbat without hitting one or two of 'em of one kind or another.

It's to be questioned if Carrie Chapman Catt would be acceptable as a presidential candidate to her own sex. She has been talking so much good, horse sense of late that it's hardly probable that her candidacy would appeal to those of the women folks who are in politics for what there is in it.

Officials of the Hamburg-American liner, Resolute, which has arrived in New York from a world cruise, estimate that the passengers aboard left fully $1,000,000 behind them as the result of purchases made in foreign lands. When it comes to the matter of dispensing coin, Americans are in a class by themselves and their tendency in that direction yearly makes traveling more and more expensive for their fellow-countrymen.

THE STORM.

When thunder rolls along the echoing sky.
And shakes the jeweled drops from heaven's cup;
When through the forest comes an urgent cry
From distant depths as though the hunt were up;
When winds blow out the blouses of the trees,
That April gave them for a calm delight;
And showers strike the earth where drowning bees
Lie folded in the flowers' shrouded white:
Then spectre-hosts outride the windy day,
Careering down the gale from misty heights—
Pale spirits once of earth and stormy fray—
To flock again the meads in lusty flights . . .
Till hurrying tumult ends and all is still,
As famished swords return a sheathing light;
While evening sweetly folds the moon-cold hill
And little meadow-voices pipe the night.

Exercise Widens Life's Span.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In talking about the heart there may seem to be inconsistencies of statement. Once you are told to avoid violent exercise and emotion, for fear of their bad effects on this organ. Another time you are told to walk briskly and to stimulate an interest in things, so that the heart will beat more vigorously.

What about it, anyway? Just how should you treat this vital organ?

The heart is a mass of muscles. It must beat seventy times, or so, every minute. No matter how quiet you may be, the powerful heart muscles contract strongly every time there is a heart-beat. When you are hurried or excited these contractions are fairly violent.

There is no doubt that for some persons safety demands moderation and caution against those experiences which excite the heart. But for most of us, by all odds the vast majority of us, it is important to train the heart so that it is accustomed to hard work, reasonable work, of course.

There arise emergencies when tremendous strain is thrown upon the heart. These emergencies are met in health and they are met in disease.

You may run for the street car, or be told of some frightful accident to one near and dear to you. Without warning there may come a terrible demand upon your heart muscles.

Or you may have some profound illness when prolonged overwork is thrown upon the heart. In a disease like pneumonia, the high fever and rapid pulse may test the endurance of the strongest heart.

You never know what demands will be made on your heart muscles. You must be ready for whatever may come.

When you know that the heart is largely muscle, you know that it must be treated like other muscles if it is to grow strong. There must be systematic exercise, causing the heart muscles to work harder than they usually do.

The trouble with most persons is that they never take any exercise beyond that demanded by the daily duties. It would be foolish to advise a farmer, a carpenter, a plumber, or any other man engaged in active hard muscular work, to "take exercise." He would laugh at you.

But a bookkeeper, a manicurist, a stenographer, most clerks and the majority of business men and women, do not get physical exercise, or, at least, brisk physical exercise. They must have it if the body generally, and the heart in particular, are to be kept in prime condition.

You should lay up a reserve of strength in your heart muscles by keeping them fit and strong and by vigorous exercise. That is your duty to yourself.

Of course, if you have a weak heart and your doctor advises against such exercises, you should follow his advice. But for most of us vigorous work will add strength, and length of days, too.

(A second article on the heart will appear tomorrow.)

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

H. S. Q—What would cause a running ear in an infant of four months? The discharge has a sickening odor. The baby has never been ill or cross and the ear is not inflamed or sore.

A—There must be some underlying cause. Have the baby's ear examined to prevent more serious trouble.

Editorial Comment.

ETERNAL PEACE WITH FRANCE.

The state department makes it known that the administration is willing to discuss with France a treaty forever outlawing war between the two countries. It has been proposed by the French foreign minister, Briand, to Ambassador Herrick in Paris and by him reported to Washington.

Nothing in the future seems less probable than a war with France. America and France have unsettled issues, it is true. One of them is the unpleasant subject of the debt, but even with that as an irritant war is a thing which seems incredible as a prospect. American sentiment for France has been a real thing, and it has survived some trying circumstances, one of which was a French army in Mexico supporting an alien emperor.

To pledge eternal peace with France would be pleasing to some Americans, who would regard it as the first step in obtaining a permanent and universal peace with war at last banished from even the thoughts of men. In reality it would be a promise made by men who could not guarantee performance. Any preventable war will be prevented. We had a century-old treaty with Prussia not to seize the property of private citizens in case of war. That went into the discard. It was a rational treaty not based on illusions. The men who made it intended that it should be kept. It was a scrap of paper which did not get high-lighted by a diplomatic outburst of candor, as did a celebrated German violation of treaty in Belgium.

If Mr. Bryan had been a little longer in his peace activities when he was in the state department we might have had one of his thirty or more treaties signed with Germany. Nations were obliging him with their signatures and making him happy. If he had succeeded with Germany the United States would have been pledged to wait a year before it went to war after the issue of war had taken shape. That would have been torn up.

These bows of grace and pledges of friendship are gratifying, but in latter times they do not control realities. So far as people now living can govern the future it is safe. So far as they can not govern if they ought not to write pledges for it.—Chicago Tribune.

STAMP IMPOST ON EGGS.

The old tithing system of religious as well as civic tradition for raising revenue was long attended by corruption and other evils and has been abolished by the new Turkey. In its place, tax on land and also a tax on consumption or sales tax, have been substituted. Under the latter, a stamp equal in value to about 2½ per cent. of the price paid has to be affixed to every article of food or clothing or other necessary, not merely the first time it changes hands, but every time.

By the time an egg is served in an eating-house, it is consequently of almost unrecognizable appearance. It has a stamp pasted on it when the Turkish farmer sold it to the itinerant collector of eggs, another put on when it was sold to the wholesaler or commission man, another when it was sold to the retailer, another when it was sold to the restaurant man and still another when the restaurant man sold it, soft-boiled, to the customer for breakfast.

Probably these eggs are of such curious embellishment when taken to the table that tourists will bring some of them home as souvenirs of their wanderings. If they do the eggs might be preserved as also fragils, but instructive, souvenirs of the world-wide effects of all taxes, particularly those collected from successive purveyors.

After many campaigns, the effect of tariff taxes, in adding to prices, with a profit figured on the added cost every time the dutiable article is sold, probably is fairly well understood by this time. But various other taxes have the same effect. The customs house tax is collected but once and various circumstances modify its influence. From a poultry man, itinerant buyer, commission man, retailer and restaurant proprietor—provided all are prosperous enough to pay income taxes—an American egg may come with about the same markings indicating taxes repeatedly collected on the same thing.

Unfortunately, however, the markings are invisible. The consumer who complains of high prices does not know one—though by no means the only one—important cause contributing to high prices.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

A New York university man says there should be a society for the prevention of senility. He doesn't believe in old age. Work and love will prevent it. You can defy time if you keep your interest in life and its affairs. Dr. Gray says these things, too:

"Men fear old age, not because they lose ideals, but because they lose hair.

"Fat is the fate they fear more than the hereafter.

"The worst thing about old age is the lack of interests.

"Another is the lack of love.

"Real love, however, comes only with maturity.

"A man is not a perfect lover until he is past fifty."

A Boston educator puts a cash value of $70,000 on a college education. He arrives at interesting figures by comparing the earning power of men with and without college degrees. He is clever with statistics but he will never be able to put a true value on education in terms of dollars and cents. Some intangible values are vastly greater than any tangible ones.

A great manufacturer, who employs many thousand men to make tires and other rubber products and whose sales total $100,000,000 a year, says no price is too high to pay to get rid of an executive who has become lazy. The saddest figure in the business world is the executive who is slipping because he is lazy.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, June 16 — The stranger who pauses, especially after nightfall, before those glowering mansions of millionairedom, will almost immediately observe one or two figures appear from apparently nowhere to stand at a respectable distance in the offing.

They are the private watchmen, ever on guard at the portals of the rich. It is their job to restrain, not only the ordinarily curious, but the cranks and those who might have dangerous notions. So carefully are the rich protected that for a stranger to gain entrance halls is almost impossible.

Even reporters, skilled in scaling barriers of all sorts, often have to fortify themselves with pre-arranged appointments. It is rare a passerby sees people of wealth leaving their domiciles to enter their automobiles.

That is because watchmen usually scan the streets to see that there are no loiterers and then press a buzzer signal indicating that the path is clear. It is not, however, a great danger that is feared. It is from annoyance of those who seek personal interviews.

There are hundreds who lie in wait for the rich to exploit some idea which they believe needs only a moneyed interest. More than fifty per cent. of a rich man's mail is burdened with those epistolary pleas. Strangely enough many people have been able to live for years through begging letters.

It has been said many millionaires were driven from Fifth avenue to sequestered side streets because of those who waited morning and night in hope of a personal talk. The late Senator Clark left his palace through a side servant entrance.

A gentleman I know was walking homeward from a dance very late one night. In passing an exclusive strip of Murray hill he heard something drop to the sidewalk from his pocket and in the dark began to prowl around on his hands and knees. When he retrieved the lost article, he found he was in a complete circle of ten men—all guardians of the rich.

The swankily-racked one-piece telephone of England and the continent has met such a sweeping demand in New York that rates for their use have increased fifty cents a month. There is a shop now dealing exclusively in their sale and installation.

In a short eight-block walk in midtown the other day I discovered two big hotels whose existence I had not known. Yet here they were with gaudy lobbies of onyx and marble displaying as much bustle as those that have existed for years. One has been open for a year and the other four months and yet five people to whom I talked later, knew nothing of their existence. I doubt if such buffding activity could go as unnoticed in any other city.

About twenty years ago Isadora Duncan, the dancer, won first-page prominence for giving a carriage driver a $100 tip for transporting her from her hotel to the Metropolitan opera house. This week many New Yorkers have been solicited for subscriptions to a fund to purchase for Miss Duncan her old home in Neuilly, France.

During those golden days I was sent to interview Miss Duncan for a Middle West newspaper. She received me in a room with decorations that somehow suggested a spasm in verse libre. She was seated on a stool surrounded by a circle of soft blue pillows. It was the first time I had ever seen a strange woman uncorseted. She wore a flowing robe and there was a sort of black metal band around her neck. I was about five months removed from the north end of a south-bound plow, yet we discussed free love and she smoked one of my cigarets and I went back to my city editor, feeling downright full of the Old Harry.—Copyright, 1927.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

HARRY E. HULL.

Harry Edward Hull, commissioner general of immigration, was born at Belvidere, New York, March 12, 1864. He was the mayor of Williamsburg, Iowa, from 1889 to 1901, and served as postmaster of the same city from 1901 to 1914. Hull was a member of the sixty-fourth to sixty-eighth congresses from the Second district of Iowa, 1915 to 1925. In the latter year he was appointed commissioner general of immigration. He feels that congress should legislate regarding aliens unlawfully in this country. He says:

"This matter of the violation of the immigration law is serious and important. We undoubtedly have many aliens, not in institutions, who are unlawfully in our country. Various estimates have been made of this number, but I have no doubt that there are several hundred thousand aliens who are unlawfully here, that is, who entered surreptitiously by smuggling or without inspection, who secured entry perhaps by false and misleading statements, who perhaps arrived as seamen and deserted their vessels or were discharged at the port of arrival and abandoned their calling.

"There are at the present time approximately 6,000,000 aliens who are properly registered as having legally entered the country to stay permanently. Some have estimated the number of aliens unlawfully in this country as high as 3,000,000, but whatever figure we advance in this connection the problem presented is an enormous one.

"Most of this number are in the country beyond the statutory periods within which the law permits deportation, and we are brought face to face with the question—what are we going to do with this great number of aliens whom we are unable under the law to deport?

"Clearly we can not make them depart from the country and reapply for admission in accordance with the existing law. The quotas prevent reentry. They have no legal status as residents of the country, and no lawful domicile.

"I believe that situation should have early attention by congress. The view of the department is that no authority exists in the present law for administration officials to correct the status of this large number, and many can not be deported because the statutory limitation has run out."

LD RAILROAD IAN VISITING RIENDS HERE

Quigley, 90, Renewing Acquaintances in Marion and Vicinity

Quigley, 90, a former resident vicinity, who has been visiting Marion County and Iberia, of the oldest railroad men and known in Marion and neighbor- ties, gler was born in New Jersey in 1837. When only a small boy he came to Ohio and located in Mansfield with his parents. In 1852 they moved to Galion and he remained a resident of that city for many years, working on various railroads between Marion and Galion.

In 1852 he helped his father, Thomas B. Quigley, lay the first railroad track from Galion to this city. This road was then known as the B. & L. Railway. It is now the Big Four.

His father was the first engineer on the road and the son, A. B. Quigley, was his fireman. He was permitted to run the engine in 1854, when a boy of 17. He continued on the road for more than 57 years. At the age of 72 he was retired on a pension.

Since the death of his wife in 1922, Mr. Quigley has made his home with his son, Ray, of Lakewood.

Excursions Offered

The Pennsylvania Railroad is offering a 16-day limit seashore excursions to Atlantic City and other Southern New Jersey seashore resorts for the summer. Three round trip excursions, with liberal stop-over privileges returning, will leave Marion July 26, August 9 and August 23.

Through sleeping cars are provided to Atlantic City.

Everybody in Capital Forgets Current Events for Lindbergh

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Now that Colonel Lindbergh's moved on with his mammoth attraction, let's take a hasty glance around at some of the little matters which have been awaiting attention in Washington until the government had time to give them the once over.

Up to date they've scarcely been mentioned.

The reports and dispatches and correspondence concerning them have simply been dumped on departmental desks and stayed there, mostly unopened, while officialdom was greeting Lindy.

Except as to Lindy, the capital honestly hasn't the slightest idea what's been going on of late.

It will be interesting to see what can happen, and nobody knows it.

TO begin with, Russia's in a terrible ferment, due to the cold blooded assassination of one of its emissaries in Warsaw, right on top of a police raid on its diplomatic headquarters in London, following the local authorities' flagrant violation of the sanctity of its embassy in Peking, plus a healthy suspicion in Moscow, that all the rest of the world's out to "get" the Soviet government.

England and Russia, in fact, have severed relations.

Dispatches (hitherto unread) say a conflict is threatened that may involve the whole of northern Europe.

ITALY and Jugoslavia are on the ragged edge of war over Albania.

It may sound like a small affair, but it's one of those Balkan difficulties which, when started, spread like smallpox. The World war illustrated how they do it.

Dispatches (hitherto unread) say it threatens a conflict which may involve the whole of southern Europe.

CHANG TSO-LIN'S forces, bunched in and around Peking with the rebels closing in on 'em, appear to be on the verge of a fight that will make the rookus a few weeks ago at Shanghai and up the Yangtse look like small potatoes.

To be sure he did it respectfully.

GENERAL'S MODERN NEW

TIRE PAYMENT SYSTEM

for Fords, Chevrolets

ESSEX, DODGE, PONTIAC and Other Popular Priced Cars

REALIZING THE TREMENDOUS DEMAND for a MODERN, money-saving tire payment system....It is a matter of extreme pride with us that as distributors of the General Tire we are able to announce the first and only time-payment plan financed by a tire manufacturer....offering these unequaled economies for the tire buyer....Advantages never before given in connection with time payments.

It saves you from paying the collection and adjustment losses that other stores have to allow for on the installment class of tires.

CREDIT TO SUIT EVERY PURSE

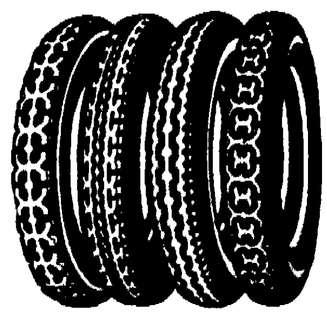
BIGGEST POSSIBLE SAVING



THIS HAS BEEN MADE POSSIBLE only because of General's leadership in tire quality and highest grade distributors' stores throughout the country....Thousands of car owners will now for the first time enjoy the Economy of running on Generals instead of paying as much or more at the "dollar down" places and getting less than half the mileage and satisfaction that Generals give.

Look up any of the ads in the newspapers and then come here for a better deal in first cost and last cost.

"Marion's Leading Tire Store."

WHY PAY INSTALLMENT STORE PRICES for tires of ordinary value when just one more payment, and in some sizes even less than that, will put the General Tire on your car? No more to pay in the beginning—less expense in the end—and in addition to that saving you have the satisfaction of dealing with a regular tire store that is well established and here to stay year in and year out—with a reputation for square dealing and equipped to give you the most complete service.

Time creates the matchless, mellow Flavor....

Aged 6 months

Clicquot Club Ginger Ale

YOU find it—this aged, mellow softness—only in Clicquot Club Ginger Ale, and it is there because skill joins hands with Time in the making of this delightful beverage, creating the bouquet and aroma of a veritable vintage.

And what accounts for this haunting charm of flavor? The rare quality of pure, natural spring water that flows from its natural source to a modern, sunlit plant. The choiceness of the flavoring and sweetening ingredients, whose quality is higher than the highest government standards. And—most important of all—this careful process of aging

With Clicquot Club, as with old wines, this aging releases hidden tones in the flavorings and permits their perfect blending into an exquisite bouquet. One sip, of either the full-flavored Golden or the delicate Pale Dry, reveals the difference that gives Clicquot Club its distinctiveness—that rich flavor no other ginger ale can match.

That is why the offering of Clicquot Club is a compliment to any guest; why its use with other beverages produces such satisfying results. To have it in your home; to order it at your club, hotel or restaurant; to insist on Clicquot Club everywhere, is to show appreciation of those rare qualities which always have made "vintage" wines famous.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Veal and Ham Pie—Cut breast of veal into small pieces, dust with pepper and salt and stew gently for two hours, covered. Allow to cool. Line a deep dish with good crust and cover the bottom with a layer of veal, then a layer of ham sliced or cut into small pieces, a little grated onion, pepper and salt, then more veal, alternating, heaping it higher in the center. Make a gravy of the stock the meat was cooked in, filling the dish three-quarters full. Put on the top crust, make vent and bake until the crust is thoroughly done. Left over meat may be used for the pie which may be rewarmed with good results.

SCALLOPED POTATOES

Wash, pare and dice one quart of potatoes, add one finely chopped onion and put in boiling salted water and boil five minutes, then add a small can of pimentoes cut into strips and boil about five minutes more. Drain and turn into a buttered baking dish, make a white sauce, and when it is at the boiling point add three-quarters teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and half pound grated cheese. Heat very slowly after adding cheese and stir until it is melted. Pour this sauce over the potatoes and bake in a moderate oven until brown.

Flower Mission Day Is Observed Here by W. C. T. U.

Members of Maion County W. C. T. U. held their annual observance of flower mission day yesterday at Marion County Home, when they presented an entertaining program and oranges, cookies and flowers to those in the home.

Rev. W. H. Howard, pastor of First United Brethren Church gave a splendid talk on the subject, "Prohibition." The program proper opened with the singing, in unison, of "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," and with devotional exercises in charge of Mrs. Scott Irey.

A reading, "Bill," was given by Miss Nyla Miller and a piano solo was played by Miss Pauline Zachman. Mrs. A. L. Wood, who arranged the musical program, entertained with a vocal solo, "Rock of Ages," with Miss Zachman playing her accompaniment at the piano.

Mrs. W. F. Williamson was in charge of a beautiful flower pageant presented by Misses Virginia Crotinger, Dorothy Kinamon, Kathryn Williamson, Imogene Marks, Marguerite Price, Marguerite Williamson, Gladys Toby, and Georgia Croft.

A pleasing number was the vocal selection sung by little Miss Martha Williamson. Following the reading given by Miss Ada Grace Smith, the program was brought to a close with prayer led by Mrs. A. C. Jennings, and the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

The session was unusually well attended and the program which was arranged by Mrs. J. W. Fetter, county superintendent of flower mission work, said to be one of the most interesting ever presented in connection with this observance.

TEMPERANCE GROUP TO MEET

Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without gripping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.—Adv.

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

UGH the scrub balsam he and a giant bulk, weaving ing in the deepening gloom; snarling cry, followed by a might have come in concert thousand hooded cobras! He bulk move toward him and green points of light gleamed the undergrowth. Now he saw take shape; a long, rakish a twisting, weaving tail and ose.

as gazing on a tiger!

riously, he recalled that ght in Ben Mansour's house, messenger had turned at the and tossed backwards the tiny a tiger; he recalled, too, our had picked it up and reabout it—had called it the Death.

ce, in the name of all that Had the animal come from? y there filtered through his ghts a paragraph he had one of his books:

a common practice of the of the outlying lands to purchase the fiercest of tigers while they are yet tender cubs. The wizards then train these ferocious beasts, much as we train our dogs, and use them to further their schemes, whether of the common mystic kind, or of more nefarious natures. It is said, but has never been verified, that some of the marabouts, worried because of the inroads the wizards are making in the matter of winning the following of the people, have also adopted the tiger method of subjugating those who oppose them, and some strange tales come out of Morocco as a result of these practices."

Here, then, unless all his studies had gone for naught, unless he was a preacher of false wisdom and a follower of lying history, was one of the trained tigers of the Atlas—the striped death of the mountains! Without a doubt the animal belonged to the marabouts, for here in this mysterious, far reach of Morocco wizards were scarce and of such mediocre caliber that the marabouts had won to supreme power with little or no competition. There was no question in his mind but that this brute, its livid jaws agape, was a trained killer; that had been proved beyond the peradventure of a doubt when the raging beast had sprung at him from its perch on the low-hanging branch of the argan fir.

It was strange, his racing thoughts were telling him, over and over again, that the killer had misjudged his distance—or, had his own instincts been so keen that he had sprung aside even before the striped death had launched what it had intended for the death stroke? He did not know, and now his mind began to busy itself with the immediate future—with plans of how he might circumvent the brute.

He saw its fiery eyes gleam greenly as it approached his covering in the scrub balsam, and he sensed that one of its great claw clad paws, the claws distended, was raised and prying tentatively among the thorny branches. He struck with Beni Ahmed's sword and was rewarded with a roar of surprised rage and pain from the tiger. He saw it leap backk swiftly, its tawny tail waving like the undulations of a cobra, then his hand went beneath his burnouse and came forth with a tiny piece of dynamite and a single match. Silently, he was blessing the foresight that had caused him to bring to Morocco those twelve cubes of the explosive that he had originally started with. One, he had used at the gate of the burning. Therefore he must have eleven left.

Carefully he judged the distance, then struck the match. As the short fuse sputtered he arose to his feet, standing shoulders and head above the scrub balsam, having free play for his swinging right arm. Straight at the tiger the hissing, spluttering ball of charred destruction hurtled, and the beast, watching it come, seemed suddenly to realize that here was peril, here was something that would hurt terrifically if allowed to strike. The tiger leaped an instant before the explosive arrived, but not quickly enough to totally escape.

Came a blinding, short-lived flash and a sharp detonation; came, too, a prolonged wail from the tiger and a shrill, air blasting yowl; there was a threshing of the great body, then the pad, pad, pad of running feet. Straining his eyes, Larry saw the brute making off through the forest, its great body sagging in the middle, as though badly hurt. But he knew the beast was suffering only from shock; knew, too, that the dynamite had not reached home and that, just as soon as the animal recovered from its surprise, regained its poise, it would come back, once more seeking, stalking him through the gloom of the forest.

But it could not be helped; here was a peril he would have to face to find Benna again was worth the facing of this killer, worth the facing of a thousand killers! Calmly he left the balsam, but now he shifted another piece of the dynamite until it lay close at hand and his muscular, bronzed fingers never left their clutch on the butt of the automatic. He realized that the gun would be of little use were he to meet the tiger at close quarters unless, by some God given chance, he managed to plant a bullet squarely in the center of one of those green eyes or directly in the middle of the livid, gaping jaws and hideous teeth.

Rapidly he made his way down the path; but now he allowed his feet to guide themselves through the darkness, for his eyes watched with avid interest the low-hanging branches that webbed the gloom above his head. For the most part these were too small to hold even a third of the weight of the striped death, but anon he came to limbs that might easily have held the beast, and at such times he stepped aside carefully into the forest, refusing always to walk beneath what might prove to be a death trap.

And so he pursued his journey. Now, the gloom had deepened and blackness that was thick and stifling came down around him. It was impossible to see a dozen feet ahead and when, after a time, he came to a tall, slender eucalyptus tree he paused beneath it, shifting his sword so as to make climbing easier. Three minutes later he was twenty feet up the hole, ensconced at a junction of limb and trunk, listening silently to the night life of the forest.

Soon he heard the soft thud, thud, thud of padding feet. The killer was on the scent, stalking him! Steeling his nerves and fighting the desire to shout and scream and frighten with the very sound of his voice the striped death that sought him out in this manner, he drew forth one of the dynamite cubes and held it lightly in his hand, visioning sub-consciously that he now had, after this one, only ten of the cubes left.

He heard a rustling at the foot of the eucalyptus, felt the tree shiver as though a mighty wind had touched it briefly. He knew the killer had found him and was wondering as to the advisability of making the upward spring, a spring that would land him a good fifteen feet above the ground; then, his great claws digging into the bole, it could finish the remainder of the distance rapidly.

Straining his eyes downward, he made out two tiny points of green, a half-dozen yards beneath him. He started to strike his match, but caught himself. It would doubtlessly result in the tiger leaping immediately to one side; also it would be a waste of previous ammunition, for the killer, seeing the match flare, would, of course, remember that former burning blast, and move swiftly to escape a second baptism of fire and sound. Larry found himself wondering if he might not protect himself for the time being simply by striking matches and letting them fall. He dismissed this thought because of the extreme scarcity of his matches.

The green points of light below him remained stationary. The tiger was gazing upward at him, making its plans, preparing either to spring or walk away to cogitate further. He decided to try his automatic, though he had no faith in its power against this giant beast. He found the cold butt of the gun in his hand and sensed that he was aiming by sheer instinct at the green lights below. His finger pressed the trigger and a stream of fire gushed through the night, while a living spray of leaden pellets hurtled downward with all the force of the power which hurled them. He heard a terrific, snarling scream; knew his bullets had gone home, wounding the beast, at least. Then, he was almost unseated by an almost irresistible blow that struck the tree. The bullets evidently had decided the tiger, for doubtlessly with blood streaming from wounds about its head and shoulders, it had sprung, instantly, relentlessly, and was even now clawing upward through the branches!

In the face of the dreadful thing that faced him, Larry became exceedingly cool. Calmly his hand struck the match and as its glow flared through the darkness of the night he saw the head of the beast, blood-covered, jaws wide parted, breath literally blasting the silence with fierce hisses, not more than a yard below him!

He wondered if the fuse would burn to the dynamite in time, and with no time to give heed to the outcome he dropped the sputtering, sizzling messenger of death straight downward, directly toward the snarling, gaping jaws!

Any movement becomes stationary when its projectors begin to lose faith in it.

Sheer Frocks and Women's Hygiene

New way safer—discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

THAT filmy gowns and women's oldest hygienic problem now go safely together is a fact millions of women are learning.

Old-time sanitary "pads" with their worries and dangers are giving way to the utter protection of a new way called Kotex.

✔ Kotex discards as easily as tissue. Thus no laundry, no embarrassment of disposal.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton "pads," one may now dance, motor, go about for hours with never a doubt. Also deodorizes; thus ending all fear of offense.

Obtain at any store without embarrassment simply by saying "Kotex." Box contains 12. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

KOTEX

No laundry—discard like tissue

There is just one right way to keep the skin clear and smooth

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S. which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Berker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

S.S.S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory. It is time-tried and reliable.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.—Adv.

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Veritzen's Plan

I DO not think that Philip Veritzen ever had been so astonished in his life as he was when I replied to his announcement that we would have our conference in the country, instead of at his offices with the ultimatum that I would not go unless I could ask Lillian Underwood to be of the party.

He is too poised, too perfectly the master of his emotions to show any surprise beyond a delicately amused lifting of the eyebrows which subtly labeled me as provincial, even tiresome. But I did not care what his opinion was. I only knew one thing. I would not go with Philip Veritzen for a day's jaunt in the country with no one else in the party, no matter how casual an air of business conference he gave to the expedition.

"By all means," he said, smilingly. "Mrs. Underwood is always an addition to any party."

Then he permitted himself a tiny slur.

"This is not a general rule of ours, is it?" he asked. "I remember one day you could not attend a conference of mine because you had a drive and dinner engagement with——"

"With Major Grantland, an old friend of mine and my husband's," I returned steadily, wondering grimly if Dicky would bolster my statement if he were present, "to whom we both are indebted for the saving of our little boy's life. I had not seen him for many months, during which time he had been absent in another country. Besides, that was only a short jaunt, while, if I understand you correctly, this conference——"

"Is to be an all-day affair," he said, still with the smile upon his lips, which I guessed masked annoyance—even resentment—at what he no doubt termed my audacity. "You know the conditions of Sunday traffic. To get to any place sufficiently distant from the city to have the sense of seclusion and country life which I wish, will take two or three hours, and our return is likely to be late. So warn my old friend, Mrs. Underwood, of this when you convey to her my very pressing invitation to make a third at our 'party'. If she is as busy as she usually is, she will want to bring some work along with her. Luckily the car is large enough to permit even a drawing board to be tucked away in it."

With a remembrance of the work which Lillian had said was awaiting her, I mentally commented that she might easily propose such an addition to the luggage. But I voiced only a conventional request.

"May I telephone her? I suppose you will wish to start soon?"

"Of course," he assented cordially, and I realized that, with his usual perfect poise, he meant to make the best of the situation and act as if the inclusion of Lillian had been his own plan. "But will you do me the favor to do a little and permit Mrs. Underwood to think that it was my original idea to invite her. I fancy she wouldn't care to be an afterthought."

He was "saving his face," Chinese fashion, but I was only too glad to aid him in the attempt. I had anticipated an unpleasant interview, from which it appeared I was to be spared.

"I am sure it was your original idea," I said smiling a bit saucily at him as I took up the telephone receiver. "You were so busy it simply slipped your mind, that is all."

He took a hasty step toward me, then stopped, but there was a flaming look in his eyes which made me realize that I must guard my face and voice most carefully when I was talking to him.

Lillian's voice came promptly over the telephone.

"'Lo, Madge! What's the dope? Is the lifeboat needed?"

I cut her short hastily, for her voice came so clearly that I was afraid Mr. Veritzen, standing so near me, might hear it and guess that I had anticipated needing her.

"I have a most delightful invitation for you," I said. "A whole day in the country, a motor drive, a dinner, and the opportunity to bring your work along if you wish."

O'Brien Boy Thin and Pale

In a Little Over Two Months Gained Eleven Pounds

As a body builder, an appetite creator, and to make weak, skinny boys and girls sturdy, strong and full of energy there is nothing like Cod Liver Oil—any physician will tell you that.

But it's vile, horrible stuff to take, and is apt to upset any stomach, so now doctors are prescribing and wise parents are buying McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—sugar-coated, and as easy to take as candy.

The son of George G. O'Brien of Mahwah, N. J., was thin and pale and did not get enough nourishment from his food. In a little over two months, he gained eleven and one-half pounds, and feels and looks one hundred per cent. better.

Mothers, if any of your children are weak, thin or puny, give them these tablets, as directed for 30 days, and watch them gain flesh and health from day to day—they seldom fail—but if the unusual should happen and you are not supremely satisfied with results—your druggist is authorized to return your money.

Be sure—always—to get the original and genuine McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—60 tablets 60 cents at any druggist in America. Thousands of boxes sold daily.—Adv.

His Piles Gone In Just Five Days

Almost A Miracle, He Tells His Friends

He suffered intense agony from piles for years. The itching—the burning—the terrible straining almost drove him crazy.

He went to his druggist and bought a tube of Pile-Foe because he had read an ad that guaranteed it to "end all pile distress, agony, itching and burning in 5 days or money back."

It cost him a dollar, but as he tells his friends when boosting Pile-Foe, "It was worth a thousand. It stopped all misery as if by magic. It was all O. K. in five days. It was almost a miracle how speedily they vanished."

Pile-Foe is a physician's prescription that Henney & Cooper and druggists everywhere rightly guarantee.—Adv.

Defies Age by Using Ordinary Buttermilk to Beautify Complexion

Tells Bradley's Drug Store Not To Take Anyone's Money Unless This Delightful New Vanishing Cream Shows a Decided Improvement

Big Demand for new Package Amazes Druggists.

Buttermilk Cream creates beauty almost like magic. The most wonderful thing about it is the fact that while it turns the dullest, most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes red or rough hands or arms snowy white, yet there is not the slightest sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least shininess or greasiness of the skin.

No matter whether you are troubled with a poor complexion, wrinkles, pallor around the eyes, freckles, crow's feet or lines around the mouth, ugly finger nails, or just a simple roughness of the face, hands or arms caused by wind or sun, you will find that any or all of these troubles will quickly disappear with the use of Howard's Buttermilk Cream.

IMPORTANT—Even the finest face creams fail if the soap you use is harsh. Howard's Buttermilk Cream Soap keeps skin smooth, soft and pliable.—Adv.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Why Castoria?

Years ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupefy the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for, the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years it has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians everywhere and become a household word among mothers.

A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself, without consulting a physician.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

$25,000 IN INSURANCE WRITTEN FOR VETERANS

Many Taking Advantage of Service Offered by Legion; Period Ends July 2

Nearly $25,000 worth of government insurance has been written for ex-service men in the office opened here by Bird-McGinnis Post, No. 102, American Legion in the room formerly occupied by the Western Union telegraph station in Hotel Marion, E. Center-st, it was announced today by L. Don Jones, commander of the post.

The period during which war risk insurance can be converted into other government policies or new policies can be taken out by ex-service men expires July 2, Commander Jones said today. Owing to the fact that Congress has adjourned there is no possibility of the time being extended, Mr. Jones said.

Seven different forms of this insurance are available.

Considerable interest has been manifest on the part of ex-service men in Marion and surrounding towns in the service being offered by the local legion post. Last night two men from Upper Sandusky availed themselves of the service.

The local office will be open every night with the exception of Sundays until the period ends, it was announced.

Here Is Something Every Nervous Person Needs

Bradley's Drug Store Offers Lifetone Tablets to Build Up Shattered Nerves and Money Back if They Fail.

What are you going to do about your nervous condition?

Are you going around looking gloomy and boring your friends with the old story—"Nerves shot to pieces"—can't sleep and a lot of depressing talk about how unfortunate you are?

Or are you going to do as thousands have done—get rid of your nervousness—your gloom—your low spirits and be a real keen minded, forceful and useful man again?

No matter what put you in such a nervous condition, remember that Lifetone Tablets are compounded for the sole purpose of helping nervous men and women and if for any reason they do not help you to get rid of all nervousness and at the same time cause you to grow more vigorous in body and keener in mind,—Bradley's Drug Store or any live wire druggist anywhere will gladly return the purchase price.

Seventy-two tablets for $1.00 — not much to pay for steady nerves and bright eyes and a buoyant feeling all day long.—Adv.

...investigations, gruelling examinations, vigilant watching of all suspects, and one arrest, little headway has been made apparently in the solution of the crime. Efforts of the local officials has been augmented by those of two special detectives, John W. Rommel and Slater and yet it is hard to find indications that the mystery is nearing solution.

Met Death April 8

Lowe, a Leesville farmer and thresherman, met his death on Friday night, April 8. First information concerning his tragic fate was furnished by William and Richard Fetters, brothers, employed in the Pennsylvania railroad shops at Crestline. The two had driven to Leesville from Crestline and on their return 20 minutes later found Lowe's body. The motor in his auto was running and the lights were dimmed. Lowe's pocketbook containing $145 was found in the road near the murder scene. Lowe was found at 11:15 o'clock by the Fetters and his body was still warm.

Sheriff Harvey Ulmer of Crawford County was in the hospital in Bucyrus, where he had undergone an operation for appendicitus when the murder took place, and Deputy Sheriff Fred Judd took charge of investigations in cooperation with Prosecuting Attorney Louis H. Kreiter. Assisted by Mayor Waldhauer of Crestline, county officials spent days running down all possible clews and questioning people in the community.

Robbery Theory Discarded

Robbery was at first advanced as the motive but was soon discarded. Officials then worked on the theory that Lowe was killed as the result of jealousy between Lowe and another man over a woman. The woman maintained a claim of knowing nothing about the affair and nothing developed out of the theory.

Allied with the jealously theory was one of vengeance which ascribed Lowe's death to an act of vengeance on the part of some one from the community. No confirming discoveries were disclosed. The only arrest in the case came when William C. Curtis, Youngstown, an alleged bandit, now awaiting trial on a charge of robbing the Horton Gasoline Filling Station of Galion, was charged with Lowe's death. Officials believed that Curtis as a member of the Earl Turner gang charged with robbing the Horton gasoline station the night of the murder, shot Lowe when the gang attempted to rob him near Leesville. Sufficient evidence to convict Curtis was not obtainable, however and the murder charge was dismissed.

Trial Causes Delay

The Curtis arrest took place while John W. Rommel, special investigator, was working on the case. No more arrests were made and Rommel completed his work to file a report which was not made public. Work of county officers was interrupted by the Lentz manslaughter trial and no concerted effort to apprehend the murders was made until after Sheriff Ulmer was able to resume his duties.

Officials have searched the Leesville stone quarry pond, adjacent to the scene of Lowe's death, in an effort to find the gun that took his life. The search proved fruitless. This strengthened the belief that Lowe was not killed where his body was found but rather that the car containing his dead body was left on the road after being driven to the spot from the place of the murder somewhere else.

Interest Revived

Interest in the murder was revived this week when it was known that Ora Slater was on the job, Sheriff Slater was largely the work of Mayor Waldhauer of Crestline and other citizens of the village who have been anxious to have the murderers apprehended.

Lowe's neighbors and Leesville people in general stick to the belief that he was killed by some one who lives in Crawford County.

SOCIETIES MEET

Three Galion M. E. Congregations Hold Sessions

Galion, June 16 Three prominent organization of the First M. E. church held meetings this afternoon in the social parlors of the church. The Home Missionary society met at 1:30 and continued an intensive study of conditions in our own country. At three o'clock the Foreign Missionary society assembled and held an interesting meeting which included a diversified program featuring especially a one act play by a group of enthusiastic members. At 4:30 the closing meeting of the day took place when members of all sections of Ladies' Aid societies met for a business session. After a lengthy business meeting, a dinner of lovely appointments was served to the ladies of all organizations.

FOUR PERSONS ARRESTED ON DELINQUENCY CHARGES

Bucyrus Pugilist and Wrestler Starts Serving Workhouse Term

Bucyrus, June 16—Four persons were arrested yesterday and placed in the county jail on delinquency charges. The three, Andrew Liscanna 20, Beatrice Goff, 16, Mrs Alma Goff, and T. J. Kelley.

Miss Goff is charged with delinquency and she charged Liscanna with contributing to her delinquency, Kelley is charged with contributing to the delinquency of his minor son, Willard, when police found a quantity of home brew and corn liquor in his possession.

Starts Serving Sentence

Tony Light, Bucyrus pugilist and wrestler, started serving a six months sentence at the Dayton Workhouse yesterday. Light was sentenced for contributing to the delinquency of Grace McCullough. Miss McCullough was sent to Delaware girls' institution of correction.

Damage Suit

Aged Wanderer Detained at Mt. Gilead is Anxious to Continue His Travels

Mt. Gilead, June 16—Edward Kane, 78, recently committed temporarily to the County Home yesterday, expressed his keen desire to continue his wanderings toward Cincinnati by the way of Newark. He said he "didn't understand why" he was being detained, not knowing that a man plausibly resembling himself was being sought for by friends and relatives through the radio, police and newspapers. Upon the knowledge of this, he denied having friends in Cincinnati or any attempt of his to escape.

He was taken to the County Home Monday after being discovered asleep on the Court House lawn. As he puts it, "I'm all right, I'm just under the weather."

He claims he was born in Trenton, N. J., Sept. 25, 1848. His father's occupation was that of a bricklayer, but as his father died while he was quite young, he did not follow this trade. His mother also died when he was quite young, leaving him to the care of his grandparents who soon died. He was then placed under his uncles care. At the outbreak of the Civil War, his uncle was in the south. Nothing more was ever heard of him. Soon after this, Mr. Kane came to Ohio, where he remained since, spending most of his younger days as a railroad employe. He claims to have helped build the B. & O. shops in Newark. He was employed with the railroads until 1920 when he was the victim of an accident which nearly disabled him. Since his accident, he has been peddling small notions to railroad men, who, as he claims, are his only friends.

He is anxious to get to Newark en route to Cincinnati to see his old friends. As to religion, "No, I never went to Sunday School or Church. If I had, I wouldn't be here." He blames his lack of religion to the lack of parental guidance.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING IS HELD AT MARYSVILLE

Miss Ruth Mader Becomes Bride of Fred Uhle, Columbus

Marysville, June 16—A very pretty wedding was performed at the home of Mr and Mrs Frank Mader, of this city, at eight o'clock last night, when their daughter, Ruth, became the bride of Fred Uhle, of Columbus. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. W. Zell, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, in the presence of about 50 guests.

The home was decorated in a very attractive manner with flowers. The wedding music was played by Miss Elma Trapp, a cousin of the bride. The selections were "Spring Song" and the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin. Miss Elwood Sawyer sang "At Dawning" and "All for You."

Miss Martha Nuetzel cousin of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and August Schenderer of Columbus, a close friend of the bridegroom was best man.

The bride is a graduate of the Marysville High school and has been connected with the Marysville Floral Co., for the past year. The groom is employed in Columbus as a cabinetmaker. They will be at home to their many friends at 844 Oakwood av., Columbus.

IBERIA M. E. CHURCH VOTES ON DELEGATES

Iberia, June 16. At an election held in the Methodist Episcopal church, Friday night, Eugene C. Albright received the largest number of votes for delegate to the lay electoral conference, to be held in Delaware Sept. 9. Clarence E. Craley received the next largest number of votes for reserve delegate. Before these men are chosen to represent the Iberia Mattel charge they must also receive enough votes in a similar election, to be held in the Marcel Church, Thursday night, Sept. 23, to give a majority of votes cast in the entire charge. In case of his final election Mr. Albright becomes a member of the lay electoral conference of the northeast Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, which will meet in Kansas City, Kan., in May, 1928.

HONOR STUDENT

Kemble, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Rausch, residing in the German Settlement and the bride is the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Blumenscheim.

A license to marry was also issued to Green W. Cowgill, 28, signal helper, of North Lewisburg, and Miss Blanche Burroughs, 21, Allen Township. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. H. Birard.

NEW MARYSVILLE CHURCH

Growing Attendance at Non-Sectarian Meetings Prompts Erection of Building

Marysville, June 16—A contract was awarded yesterday for the construction of a new church in Marysville, to be known as the Union Gospel Chapel. The building is to be 28 feet by 55 feet and is to be constructed of building block, with a slate roof.

The project is sponsored by the Union Gospel Mission which was organized in Marysville about three months ago following a series of evangelistic meetings conducted by Rev. E. M. Shearer of New Bremen, in City Opera House. After the close of the revival, meetings were held in a vacant room in the Union Block, where the attendance has grown to such an extent that the building of a church is considered necessary.

The church is non-sectarian and has no members or organization. The meetings are conducted on Thursday nights and Sundays and those who attend do not attend as members but only "come to church." The meetings will be continued in the new church by Rev. Shearer, who will be assisted by Rev. E. Morgan.

ATTEND COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES AT DELAWARE

Iberia, June 16. Mrs. F. F. Roesch and Mrs. O. E. Patrick of Martel accompanied Dr. and Mrs. L. L. Fisher to Delaware, Wednesday morning to attend commencement exercises of the Ohio Wesleyan University. There were 350 persons in the graduating class.

After these services the ministers and their wives and children and a few other friends, of the Mansfield district, gathered at the home of District Superintendent and Mrs. F. C. Anderson, and enjoyed a sumptuous picnic dinner.

During the afternoon an adjourned session of the District conference was held in which one person was licensed to preach and the licenses of a large number of local ministers were renewed.

SPORT SAUCE

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB

ANOTHER Marion County athlete has received highest honors at college.

Harold W. Kennedy of Martel has been awarded the Western Conference medal for combined excellence in scholarship and athletics at Ohio State University. The award was made during the commencement exercises a few days ago. Kennedy graduates this year.

During his varsity career, which closed Saturday, when he won second place in the two mile run at the National Collegiate meet in Chicago, Kennedy won six "O's" in track and cross country. In addition, he earned a mark of 315 out of a possible 400 points in his classroom courses in that time.

Kennedy for three years has been among the best cross country runners and middle distance athletes in the country. He won the indoor championship in the mile run two years in succession in the Big Ten title meet.

Besides the conference indoor record, he also owns the varsity mile and two-mile records.

Kennedy, who received the degree of bachelor of agriculture, hopes to go into teaching. He is considered material for the American Olympic team next year.

THE Chicago Cubs are "doped" by many sport critics to land in first place or a first place tie with the Pittsburgh Pirates by the end of the week.

The Cubs have staged one of the greatest winning streaks in the National League over some of the best teams and are scheduled for a four-game series with the lowly Phillies during the remainder of the week. They are expected to make a clean sweep of that outfit and, if the Bucs lose a couple, they will land on top.

The Pirates play Boston in a four-game series during the remainder of the week and the Cubs are more likely to win all their games than Pittsburgh is to triumph in its series, critics claim.

DICK BRASHEARS will remain with the Marion Athletics during the rest of the season, it was said today. Dick's performance behind the bat and the excellent manner in which Main pitched to him ruined the Detroit Clowns last week.

"THEY all fall sooner or later." That is, all but the Lutherans and Marion Steam Shovel shops, so far, in the city recreational ball leagues. The latest victim to the above saying was Wesley M. E. It fell hard Tuesday night after winning five straights.

STEWART JONES, who has been pitching consistent ball for the Trinity Baptists all season and has kept his team at the top of the second Sunday School league, or rather, near the top, stepped into the limelight Tuesday night with one of those few games that are seen or heard of in recreational ball.

He pitched a no hit, no run contest.

A MARION team is in a first-place tie in the Tri-County baseball league. The Bincos, who battled Claridon to a 4 to 3 victory a couple of weeks ago, are in a deadlock with Agosta for that position.

CALEDONIA has not yet hired a new coach or teacher to replace Coach Alvin C. Brokaw, who held that position last year. All eyes of the county are on the selection of a basketball coach for that school, which is expected to have the championship county team next season.

MARION OUTFIT USES 14 MEN IN FIRST GAME

Various Combinations Tried Out as Local Men Score Easy Victory

EXPERIMENTING with various combinations in the infield and incidentally using three pitchers and two catchers ,the Anthony Cleaners, Marion's representative recreational ball team, trounced the Delaware City outfit, 7 to 3, last night at Central Junior High, in the first inter-city contest of the season.

A crowd of more than 700 enthusiastic fans witnessed the initial game.

Burson started the game on the mound and allowed but four hits in as many innings with Doug Torrence on the receiving end. Roscoe Rank next took his turn as hurler and let down the visitors with only two hits in three frames. He was relieved by Roy Rice in the eighth, the latter allowing two hits in the last two innings. Paul Rice completed the battery men when Rank and Roy Rice acted as moundsmen.

Two In Ninth

The score at the end of the eighth frame stood 7 to 1 in favor of the Marion crew but two hits and a couple of errors in the final inning netted two more runs for the visitors.

The Marion outfit displayed a neat brand of ball from start to finish of the fray, each combination working in perfect order. While five errors were chalked up against the locals they were far between and only one proved costly.

The starting lineup included Seifert at shortstop, Gibson on third, Glen Price in center field, W. Baldauf at first, Hinklin in right field, Ed Price in the left garden. Fred Tschannen on second base, Doug Torrence behind the bat, and Burson on the mound.

Makes Changes

Roy Rice, manager of the Marion team, began making changes in the fifth inning, in an effort to find the best working combination. A. Baldauf replaced Tschannen at second and Paul Rice took the job of catcher in that inning. The other change, with the exception of pitchers, came in the eighth inning, when Frank Parr was placed at third in Gibson's position.

Marion made the first run of the game in the first frame, counted two more in the fourth, another couple in the fifth, and the final two in the eighth. Delaware scored its first tally in the fourth inning when it bunched hits off Burson to put a man across the plate.

Moeller Pitches

Moeller, hurling for the visitors, pitched a nice game but was handicapped by the numerous errors chalked up against his teammates. Pehrson at shortstop for Delaware played perfect ball until the eighth frame when he made four errors. The third baseman, Watson, was one of the best seen on a Marion diamond this season but was unable to handle all his chances perfectly.

Glen Price led Marion at bat. He collected four hits out of five trips to the plate. He was credited with half the hits made by Marion. While a number of men got on base in the eighth, practically all landed on the sacks as the result of errors on the part of the shortstop. Marion's eighth-inning rally came to a sudden close when Parr walked down the line between third and home and was put out with ease. Parr evidently thought that his side had three outs when he landed on third.

Expect 200 Horses In Marion Races Next Week

Fourteen Big Races Are on Program Prepared By Sulky City Racing Group

One Stake Race, 2:18 Trot, Scheduled for Next Wednesday; Meeting Will Open at Fairgrounds on Tuesday and Continue Through Friday

WITH nearly 200 of the best horses in the country entered and some of the greatest drivers in the world scheduled to appear here, race fans of Marion and surrounding counties are preparing for the treat of their lives when the Ohio Short Ship Circuit race meeting gets under way here on the Marion County Fairground oval here next Tuesday.

The Sulky City Racing Association, in charge of the meet, has made plans for the greatest race program ever held in this city. Entries for the purse races closed Monday and one stake race closed a few weeks ago.

BOBBY JONES STILL TRAILS

Walter Hagen Goes Into Final Rounds of National Meet Fighting for Lead

Harrison Johnston Heads Procession of Famous Golfers with 147, Hagen Next with 150, and Jones Three Strokes Behind Him; Other Results

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

OAKMONT COUNTRY CLUB, Pittsburgh, Pa., June 16 — Harrison "Jimmy" Johnston, overnight sensation of tournament golf as a result of assuming the lead in the dash toward the National Open Championship with only 36 holes to go, began turning on the Roman candles again this morning immediately after leaving the first tee. Johnston got himself an eagle on the first hole, in consequence of a 280 yard drive, a brassie to the edge of the green and a 35-foot putt but thereafter he dealt mostly in buzzards and reached the turn in 42. He had a score of 147 at the start of the round.

Walter Hagen, three strokes back at the outset, was par for the first two holes but exceeded the limit by a stroke at the third. Leo Diegel, five strokes back, was even 4's for three holes, getting a birdie at the first by reaching the green with a long second. Jim Barnes and Archie Compston, the only Britisher with a fighting chance, were six strokes back and started well, Barnes having two 4's and a five and Compston two fives and a four.

The field was two members short as the round got under way, Felix Serafin, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Eddie Murphy, Chicago, being disqualified for failure to appear on the first tee at the appointed hour.

For the first time since he relinquished the title in 1920 to Ted Ray never to regain it in the intervening years, Walter Hagen today was ready to go into the final rounds of the National Open Championship with the fighting chance that only a fighting golfer needs. Three strokes back of the lead and occupying a spot from which a rush from the rear may well be started, the "king" was poised today for the effort of a lifetime and, at least 10 other men felt exactly the same way about it.

One of them was Robert, the Emperor Jones, himself, and in person, playing through the tournament as a champion who seemed about to be unfrocked. The gent was six strokes back of the leader, Harrison Johnston, the amateur gentleman or gentleman amateur as the case may be. Johnston started the last two rounds with a total score of 147, Hagen with 150 and Jones with 153. It seemed as though the champion of champions was due to call it a tournament.

For, at intervening spaces were placed the illustrious names of Gene Sarazen at 148, Tom Armour at 149, Harry Cooper at 150, Harry Hampton at 151 and Bill Mehlhorn and Leo Diegel at 152, and while it may be that Jones will go very well today it doesn't stand to reason that one and all of these parties will go very bad. It will need a combination of both to return Jones to the throne he ascended at Scioto so regally last year.

You Never Can Tell

Jones, of course, is the Harry Houdini of competitive golf, the man who can pluck a rabbit out of the hat and make it look the part of a lion. He was six strokes back when they started the last 18 at Scioto. And what happened? Everybody blew with the single, outstanding and notable exception of Robert the Jones. He was four strokes off the lead starting the last night and yet won.

History may repeat, in spite of the prophets, but Bobby Jones isn't likely to win unless he starts playing miracle golf, Pronto, and without loss of future time.

As a matter of fundamental fact, he has too much to beat. In the 1920 championship, he had men in front of him who weren't due to win anyhow. Today, he must outlast such as Sarazen, Hagen, Armour, Cooper, Mehlhorn, Diegel, Jim Barnes and Archie Compston, not to consider Johnny Farrell and Bobby Cruikshank who might come up from the surreptitious rear to take the play away from everyone.

All Have Chance

Those mentioned are the only ones who have better than a mathematical chance at the title but, at that, they are too numerous if you wish to figure them against any one man. The impending champion may be neither Hagen or Sarazen. It may not be Cooper or Armour. It may be even that Johnston will fold up in the last two rounds.

But you can't figure all of them missing at one and the same time and that is the main reason that the boys behind the third tier of lockers in the Oakmont Club house are betting today that a new champion will be installed ere the shadows of late afternoon purple into that bank of hills beyond the nether bank of the Allegheny.

But whoever the winner may be, the 1927 tournament must go down in the books as the most unusual of all the classics. No one, with the possible exception or Armour's 71, Fred Baroni's 72 and Farrell's 73 of yesterday, has been able to score in the manner to which they have become accustomed.

The British nominated a nine-man team and yet with the show-down rounds approaching, only one of them, Archie Compson, has the chance of a white man on a fair day. The "hot" choices of the American contingent were supposed to be, Farrell, Cruikshank and John Golden, among others, and yet the first two are barely within hail and the latter is out of sight and virtually mind altogether.

The positions of Jock Hutchison and Willie MacFarlane ex-champions both, may hardly be regarded as encouraging while Joe Turnesa, who chased Jones into the last title, remains with the situation today almost as a matter of courtesy.

It has been a tournament of form-backflops and perhaps we haven't seen anything yet. The third and fourth rounds always produce the inevitable blowup that comes to every man who essays to play 72 holes of golf and they will be played today. Anything can happen; many things will. It only remains to determine what, how, when and by what authority.

One of the greatest crowds that Oakmont and the open championship has seen began gathering for these slow down rounds at an early hour. And it wasn't particularly impressed with what it saw. Gene Sarazen, one stroke out of the lead, started with a trio of 5's; Hagen was two over 4's for the first six holes and Harry Cooper, tied with Hagen at 150, got his regulation five at the first, a buzzard five at the second and a par 4 at the third. Eddie Loos, six strokes back of the leader, started nicely with two 4's and a five.

If this were to be merely a battle between Hagen and Johnston, it might be said that Sir Walter had done himself proud with his 39 for nine holes, since it cleared away the three strokes that separated him from the leader last night. However, at least a dozen others will have very much of a chance.

The nine-hole cards of this pair follow:

Hagen—Out: 545, 453, 544—39.

Johnston—Out: 366, 554, 445—42.

LOCAL GOLFERS IN TIE WITH FINDLAY CLUB

Twelve Individual Matches Result in 16-Point Team Deadlock

TWELVE golfers of the Marion Country Club battled an equal number of representatives from the Findlay club to a 16-point tie yesterday afternoon in the first inter-city match of the year. The match was played on the Marion Country Club links.

Each individual match went 18 holes with points being tallied on every nine holes and the total 18, a score of three points being the highest possible count for each individual.

Points

Following were the pairings with the number of points won by each player; Marion men being named first.

J. J. Hane, 1; Studebaker, 1.
K. M. Bower, 1; G. E. McCullough, 1.
C. L. Gorton, 3; A. G. Hill, 0.
W. Schaffner, 0; Schwartz, 2
W. A. Dennis, 0; L. C. Giessner, 2.
Dan Evans, 2; C. E. Hart, 1.
F. J. Longshore, 0; W. F. Pampell, 3.
J. L. Ackerson, 2; John Hoover, 1.
Joe Grundy, 3; H. C. Gassman, 0.
T. R. Allen, 1; E. M. Leader, 2.
H. R. Stoll, 0; O. E. Fleckner, 3.
Dan LaMarche, 3; R. L. Hanna, 0.

Hane is Low

The lowest score turned in by a Marion player was credited to J. J. Hane, who made the 18 holes in 83. His opponent, W. A. Studebaker of Findlay, had an 82. The two scores named were the only ones below the 90 mark.

Marion will play a return match with Findlay on the links of the Findlay Country Club, July 17.

The local outfit will journey to Lima Sunday for the second inter-club match of the season.

PLAY THREE GAMES IN STEAM SHOVEL LOOP

Orders, Office and Tools Win American League Contests

The Orders, Office and Tool Room were winners in the regular scheduled American League games of the Steam Shovel League last night.

The Orders defeated the Electricians, 6 to 5, LeMasters pitching for the winners. Edmundson was the losing hurler.

The Office trimmed the Foundry, 8 to 3, Lashey pitching for the winners. Roush and Coon were the Foundry batteries.

With Weiss on the mound, the Tools nosed out the Apprentices 8 to 7, in the best game of the trio. Fies caught for the Tool Room. Joe Ward pitched for the Apprentices.

ROGERS HORNSBY NOT TO MANAGE GIANTS

St. Louis, Mo., June 16—The story that Rogers Hornsby had been selected to manage the New York Giants in 1928, is unfounded, according to John J. McGraw, who is here with the team.

McGraw said:

"I didn't announce Hornsby would manage the Giants in 1928. What I did say was that I hoped Hornsby would be the man to succeed myself as manager of the Giants. However, I did not say in 1928, for my present contract does not expire until the close of the next season."

Color-Harmony in Sport Wear?

Color-harmony in sport wear reflects the desire of all men to be well dressed, whenever and wherever appearance counts. The old idea of dressing any old way to mix in a game of doubles, or any other warm weather sport (barring baseball!) is obsolete. Neat appearance matters now-a-days, whether on the courts or in the courts, and harmoniously blended attire invariably attains the best results. Our large array of attractive accessories for sport wear is created especially with color-harmony the predominant note.

NEW SALVATION ARMY PROJECT IS ANNOUNCED

Young People's Association To Be Listed Among Galion Organizations

Galion, June 16 — A new young people's association is to be listed among the many organizations of the city according to announcement made by the local Salvation Army Captain, Lawrence Gosnell. The Scout and Guard, a movement for girl and boys between the ages of 11 and 18 will be started with assistance of division authorities and it is the hope of the Galion workers that hearty co-operation will greet the new venture.'

Although Galion has active troops of both Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts the Salvation Army members are sure to reach many boys and girls whom it will greatly benefit. A bugle corps and band will be among the first projects to get under way and a camp for members is also included in the plans. Athletics will be supervised and taught by competent instructors and general educational work together with nature study, Bible study and art work will complete the course of work offered in the new organization.

As a means of getting an active group interested a several day camping expedition is being arranged for early in July and Major John Allen, divisional commander, will have charge of many of the lectures and study sessions.

SHE LIVED ON LIQUID FOOD

This is Mrs. Anna Goodman, 325 W. Main St., Lexington, Ky., who was relieved of stomach trouble by Pepgen. She says, "For six weeks I lived on liquid food and was so bad that something had to be done to save my life. I was advised to try Pepgen, which I did as a last resort. The result is that I am now in good health." Pepgen is recommended and sold by Bradley's Drug Store and other well stocked drug stores everywhere.—Adv.

CORNS

Instant Relief

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads stop all pain quicker than any other known method. Takes but a minute to quiet the worst corn. Healing starts at once. When the corn is gone it never comes back. If new shoes make the spot "touchy" again, a Zino-pad stops it instantly. That's because Zino-pads remove the cause—pressing and rubbing of shoes.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads are medicated, antiseptic, protective. At all druggist's and shoe dealer's—35c.

Put one on—the pain is gone!

Sciatic-Neuritis

The sciatic nerve, situated at the back of the hip joint is frequently the subject of Neuritis, giving rise to the painful disease Sciatica. The symptoms are intense pains which shoot down the thigh to the foot, often aggravated by walking, and with painful points along the course of the nerve, very tender to the touch.

The trouble is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain. The best way to get relief from the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced, if not almost banished, all pain and soreness. Continue faithfully and in a reasonable time you should be able to work and rest in comfort once again. Bradley Drug Store keeps Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2 in stock all the time and sells lots of it.—Adv.

Make sure today, that you are using the right oil in your Ford.

Smoothness and economy depend upon the oil you use

Only a specially-compounded light-bodied oil—Polarine F—can give best results in your Ford. There are several reasons why this is so.

The Ford motor is a high speed motor and requires an oil which flows freely and quickly to all engine parts.

It is a high compression motor in which carbon formation is more serious, hence an oil of low carbon tendency is required.

Its bearing construction requires an oil light enough to penetrate quickly to bearing surfaces, yet of sufficient body to withstand heat and pressure.

The splash system of lubrication is used, requiring a light-bodied oil which will atomize readily when splashed by the connecting rods.

Polarine F also has the second vital Ford oil characteristic. It keeps transmission bands soft and pliable—prevents chatter and grab.

Our recommendation of Polarine F for Fords is based on our own experience with these cars as well as the judgment of lubrication engineers.

Change crank-case oil every 500 miles and refill with Polarine F. For chassis lubrication use Polarine BB (for differential gears) and Polarine Cup Grease. These high-quality lubricants are available everywhere in Ohio to help you get best results from your Ford.

When I had finished feeding my face this morning and we had went over to the vacant lot and collected our cows and was taking them to the pasture, there was a fella about my size leaning on a fence, and I said "Hello," and he said "Hello." And he didn't say anything more and I said "Where do you live?" and he said "In here." And Youniss said, "You have got some beautiful roses.' And he said, "Would you like some?' And she said, 'I certainly would!" And he said, "Go on in and pick all the roses and gladioluses and larkspur and daisies you want. We are going to move today, and can't take them with us. My mother will be glad to have you have them. I am going for the moving wagon now,' and he walked off

We went into the yard so fast it was funny we didn't get jammed in the gate, and each one was seeing if he could pick the most flowers, and all at once there was a woman among us with a broom, and pretty near all of us got soaked before we could get out of the yard, and Youniss was just going through the gate when the woman swang on her like she was hitting a three bagger and almost lifted her off the ground. That made Youniss mad, and she went back and told the lady about the boy, and the lady said she hasn't got a boy, and it was a frame-up, and I would like to catch that kid. Youniss was crying about having her feelings and everything hurt, and the lady was crying about the flowers. So Feeble and Maggie stayed with Youniss and we went to the pasture without the girls, so we had a chance to go swimming so we had a pretty good time after all

"I shouldn't think you would ever know it, down here in the dark all the time," remarked the boy, and then noticing Matty give an impatient shrug, he hastily changed the subject.

"Do you work all night long?" asked he.

"No, only about three hours at a time. We Moles have shifts, you know. Three hours on duty, three hours off, and of course, we sleep most of the time we are not laboring. Let me tell you we work with might and main though, when we do get started."

"What do you do?" asked Peter.

"Dig!" replied the other. "Dig and eat! And then dig again! We work for the love of working! Nobody makes us, you know. We drain the land for the Two-Leg farmers and enrich his ground by continually bringing fresh earth to take the place of that out of which nourishment has gone. Whether he knows it or not, we act as spades and shovels for him and his work is much lighter and his chops much heavier because of our help."

"But don't you steal the seeds he puts in the ground, his peas and corn and beans?" asked Peter. "I heard someone say you did."

Once Fine Home

...structure following its comple... ...1831 was one of the finest ...in the village of Marion. At the time it rivaled the Busby residence, which was situated where the Busby Block now stands.

Name of the builder and first owner of the house is not recorded, but the first deed to the estate was issued to Eber Baker, Marion's founder. Baker deeded the property to Charles Smith in 1840 who passed it on to T. J. Anderson in 1843. Anderson held it until 1852 when he sold it to Mrs. Cora Spaulding who before the year was over sold the house and lot to Judge John R. Garberson.

Leffler & Bland Co., which is now Leffler & Son, bought the property from Garberson in 1880 and have held it until its recent purchase by Knapp.

The contract for the tearing down of the house has been let to John Balduf & Sons, contractors. The new owner of the lot is not ready to reveal yet his plans for building on the plot.

Oldest Structure

Perhaps the oldest structure in Marion now standing is the frame building at the rear of the Standard Auto Wrecking Parts Co., E. Center-st. The building which is now used as a shed is supposed to have been built by the founder of Marion, Eber Baker, in the year that Marion was dedicated.

According to old records the first structure of any kind in Marion was a log cabin built by Nathaniel Wyatt and Nathan Brundige in the year of 1806 in the vicinity of what is now Waldo Township.

Called "Jacobs Well"

When Eber Baker arrived in this section, which was then known as "Jacobs Well" he found among the few here, Edmund Handford and a man named Chandler who constructed the first log cabin in the immediate vicinity of Marion. The cabin was located on the same spot where the Bausinger Block, S. Main-st, is now situated. Baker occupied the cabin and a year later the first house or part of a house was added to the cabin.

Origin of Name

Old records reveal that the name, "Jacob's Well" was given to this section of the country by a man named Jacob Foos, who was at that time a commissioner appointed to fix county seats in Ohio. The story runs that when Foos was unable to find water in the vicinity he took his axe and chopped a wooden shovel from a nearby tree and after digging into the ground five feet, a stream of water gushed up. The site of the old well is situated somewhere between what is now Columbia-st and "Gospel Hill," S. Main-st.

INDUSTRIAL AND RAIL STOCKS LEAD PARADE

Bears Put To Rout with Market on Rising Scale

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks steady. Industrial stocks reactionary. Domestic bonds irregular. Foreign bonds steady. Call money 4 1-4 per cent. Grain irregular. Copper irregular. Oil irregular. Cotton unsettled. Rubber irregular. Sugar steady. Pig iron reactionary. Foreign exchange steady.

New York, June 16—The same factors which accounted for yesterday's rally in stock prices, were operative today in extending the market gains of the better grade of industrial and railroad stocks. Vigorous buying of United States Steel, General Motors and the "investment" rails, in the third and fourth hours, accompanied the rally in prices of these stocks to the levels reached before Tuesday's violent reaction.

Impetus was furnished for the sharp advance in General Motors, in the May report of retail sales, which exceeded the business of the same month last year by 21 per cent. An enormous wave of buying swept this stock forward from 199 to 203 1-2, simultaneously with the rise of United States Steel to above 123. Once again the bears were put to rout, as stocks offered were eagerly snapped upon a rising market.

The money market was the subject of favorable comment. No trace of strain or confusion was in evidence, following yesterday's huge transactions for the government and the corporations, approximating $2,500,000,000, after renewing at 4½ per cent. In the forenoon period, call money was again marked down to 4 per cent., with offerings in abundance. It was thought unlikely that the reserve bank here would reduce the rediscount rate, either at the meeting today, or at any time until the end of the summer.

Industrial reports were unchanged. Operations of the steel corporation's mills were reported at 2½ per cent. Less than last week, while prices of steel products were shown to be the lowest since 1922. Textile mills slowed down, and available freight loading reports showed a slight decline.

Rock Island assumed the leadership of the railroad group today, and in active trading sold in good volume at close to 115. On the present scale of earnings, it is reported the directors favor a 7 per cent. Annual dividend on the common stock, and will take action in that direction this fall. Investment buying of New York Central broadened as the result of the inauguration of its 8 per cent. dividend, though additional plums for the stockholders are expected later in the year.

COFFEE FUTURES

New York, June 16—The coffee futures market opened steady today. Initial prices were from unchanged to four points lower. July opened at 12.00, unchanged; September 11.92, down 4 and December 11.56, down 4.

COTTON

New York, June 16—Cotton prices were steady at the opening of the market here today. Opening prices ranged from two points lower to four points higher than last night's closing levels. July opened at 16.74, up 4; October 17.05 down 2 and December 17.29 unchanged.

OUTSIDE RUBBER MARKET

New York, June 16—Trading in the outside market for crude rubber futures was quiet today with prices lower. Sellers asked 36 1-2 for spot and June ribbed smoked sheets; 36 3-4 cents for July-Sept.; 37 1-4 cents for Oct.-Dec.; 37 7-8 cents for Jan.-March.

LAST RITES HELD FOR COUNTRY CLUB JANITOR

Funeral services for Forest Ross, 217 Senate-st, colored janitor at the Marion Country Club, who died yesterday at City Hospital from burns sustained in an accident May 6, were held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the M. H. Gunder Funeral home and at 3 o'clock at Park Street A. M. E. Church. Dr. L. W. White, pastor, officiated. The body was taken to Washington, Ky., for burial Friday in Washington Cemetery.

Ross was injured in an explosion resulting from his attempt to revive a fire in an open furnace by throwing oil upon it.

Paris has invented a new way for making women look slim. Instead of dieting or physical exercises it is done by what is known as a shadow dress. About two-thirds of the dress is of one material—that is, one sleeve and two-thirds of the way across the front and back—the remainder of the frock being in another tone of the same color. At a distance it really looks as if the wearer was a marvelously slim creature, followed by a shadow.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO BEAR EAGLES TO CONVENTION

Plans Completed for Trip at Meeting of Local Aerie

Arrangements for the special Eagle train to transport Marion Eagles and their families and friends to the state convention at Youngstown next week, were completed at a well-attended meeting of members of that lodge last night at their temple. Although the convention opens Sunday afternoon, the special train will run from here only one day, Wednesday, with which sessions the convention will close. The train leaves here at 6 a. m. on that datue.

John Abel, state vice president, and V. V. Bush, Fred T. Eaton, James A. Smith, Ragen Patterson and W. M. Ireland, local delegates, will leave for Youngstown Sunday to attend the opening sessions.

The local Eagle drum corps and band will march in the Eagle parade and compete for awards.

The regular meeting of Eagles Lodge next Wednesday night has been postponed until the following Wednesday on account of the convention.

EXTRA DIVIDEND

Richman Bros. Co., Cleveland, Add $5 Disbursement

According to word received here today by W. C. Phillians, manager of the local branch of Richman Brothers' Co., Cleveland, this company has issued an extra dividend to stockholders amounting to $5 in addition to the regular quarterly disbursement of $1.50 a share, as well as a special five per cent dividend to employes of record Aug. 1.

On top of this employes will receive the usual vacation of one week in July with pay, it being the policy of the company to suspend operations one week in July and another week during the Christmas holidays and giving a vacation with pay.

Both the regular and extra dividends are payable July 1 to stock of record June 21.

KARL KRAUTTER RITES TO BE HELD ON FRIDAY

Funeral services for Karl Krautter, of Morrow, who died yesterday morning at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben H. Cleveland, 879 Sheridan-rd will be held there at 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon and at 2 o'clock at Pilgrim Holiness Church. Rev. L. R. Mitchell of Upland, Ind., and Rev. C. M. Brown, pastor of Holiness Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Marion Cemetery.

During July fifty leading Texas farm women from all parts of the state will make a tour of California, Utah and Colorado to study standardization and organization of agriculture.

GROSS NEGLECT IS CHARGED IN DIVORCE PLEA

Mrs. Daisy M. Kaiser Seeks Decree of Separation from H. C. Kaiser

Charging gross neglect and extreme cruelty, Mrs. Daisy M. Kaiser, E. George-st, today filed suit for divorce from Henry C. Kaiser in Marion County Common Pleas Court.

The plaintiff states in her petition that they were married in this city, Aug 14, 1919 and that they have one daughter, Ruth Elma. She alleges that for the last five years the defendant has been guilty of beating her and that for the last three years he has conducted himself as a single man.

Mrs. Kaiser, who claims that she has had to support herself and her daughter for the last four years without help from the defendant, asks for a divorce and custody of the child.

To Receive Bids

Sealed bids for the construction of the Ritzler ditch, located in Green Camp Township, will be received at the office of the Marion County surveyor, at 10 o'clock, Saturday morning, according to an announcement posted, today.

The construction of the ditch was petitioned for by C. G. Ritzler of Green Camp Township and at the recent hearing commissioners orderer that it be built.

Marriage License

Dewey Little, 28, electrician of the city and Mrs. Ino Thompson, 24, clerk, also of this city, were granted a marriage license in the office of the probate court, this morning. The license is the twentieth to be issued in the local court this month.

Stevens Still Held

Howard A. Stevens, Marion attorney, and former city clerk still occupied a cell in the Marion County Jail today, when other bondholders failed to come to his assistance and replace the $5,000, which was released by former holders, last Monday.

Stevens was arrested April 29 on a charge of embezzling funds of the Charles F. Ritters estate.

TRUTH IN ADVERTISING STRESSED AT MEETING

Marion Men Return from Sales Promotion Conference at Mansfield

Truth in advertising was the keynote of the sales promotion conference of drygoods, shoe and clothing dealers of 13 Ohio counties at Mansfield yesterday afternoon. Six Marion men attended the conference.

H. H. Shively, of Ohio State University, with a subject of "Consumers Confidence in Advertising" and Miss Celia R. Case, of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, with a subject of "The Development of the Better Selling Force," were the principal speakers at the conference meeting. James E. Morton, former assistant director of the Ohio State Council of Retail Mercantis, was also a speaker. He spoke on "Protecting Business Against Itself."

Marion men at the meeting included J. E. Phillips, of the Uhler Phillips Co., chairman of the Ohio Retail Drygoods Association; Earl T. Smart, of the Smart & Waddell shoe stores, a member of the committee in general charge of the retail promotion conferences; Homer R. Waddell, of the Smart & Waddell shoe stores; John Jenner C. F. Hemlegh, Carl Campbell, John Stiffler, of the Jenner Co.

CRAMER PLEADS GUILTY TO DISORDERLY CONDUCT

Meeker Resident Fined $10 and Costs by Judge Martin

Andy Cramer, 21, of Meeker, who was arrested early Sunday morning suspected with having delivered a jug of whisky to William Darnell, 1021 W. Center st, paid a fine of $10, and costs this morning when he pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge before Judge Martin in municipal court.

Cramer was first thought by the police to have been the person who was seen by a neighbor boy, planting a jug of whisky in a shed at the rear of the Darnell home late Saturday, the finding of which resulted in Darnell receiving a fine of $100 and costs in municipal court yesterday.

MRS. GANOR BASTIAN STRICKEN AT HOME HERE

Widow of George D. Bastian Dies of Complications of Diseases

Mrs. Ganor Bastian, 79, widow of George D. Bastian, died at 5:25 o'clock this morning at her home, 620 Mary-st, complications of diseases being assigned as the cause of her death. She has been ill 10 days.

Mrs. Bastian was born in Northumberland County, Pa., April 12, 1848 and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gray of that place, both of whom are now deceased. Her marriage to George D. Bastian was solemnized there June 5, 1864. Mr. Bastian preceded her in death Feb. 3, 1897 at the age of 60. She was a member of First Reformed Church.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Carrie N. McCabe of Reading, Pa four sons, George B. Bastian, 620 Mary-st, Bert A. Bastian, 597 Mary-st, Edward E. Bastian, Harrisburg, Pa., and Landis F. Bastian, whose whereabouts are not known. Two sons, Truman Francis and Daniel Webb, preceded her in death. Fourteen grandchildren and six greatgrandchildren also survive.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed. Rev. Herbert F. Weckmueller, pastor of First Reformed Church, will officiate and burial will be in Marion Cemetery.
